Big Gold Rabbit Foot. Yes, We Have Money. Retirement at 68—Why? Real Summer in New York.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

NEWS FROM Paris suggests "another default in Paris on the debt to the United States," and the news is probably accurate. Britain's cabinet discussed payment to the United States, but reached no decision.

Certain gentlemen think that the worst misfortune is to lose your rabbit's foot. Europe, which enjoyed the habit of drawing gold out of the United States, predicts that this country will suffer misfortune because it has lost its financial "rabbit's foot" of gold.

As a matter of fact, the country is only "off the gold basis." It still has its gold rabbit's foot tucked away in Washington, and it's the biggest gold rabbit's foot on earth.

IN SPITE of Europe's fears and predictions, the dollar yesterday refused to drop lower. It went up a little.

Those that have been selling American dollars short would have stopped their foolishness could they have attended a luncheon given yesterday by Mr. Berkowitz, manager of the American Weekly, to a dozen heads of important advertising firms in the United States.

Mr. Berkowitz, interested in showing advertisers that this country still has money to spend, presented facts, based on government reports.

IN 1932, Americans spent in retail buying thirty-one thousand, five hundred million dollars. That was buying in retail stores, not doctors' bills or family spending. The exports of the whole world amounted to only twelve thousand, twelve hundred and fifty million dollars, little more than one-third of our retail business.

Americans have in their savings banks twenty-four thousand, two hundred and eighty-five million dollars. All the savings banks in the world, outside of this country, have only seventeen thousand million dollars deposits!

ALSO, THE people of the United States, appreciating their own value, carry one hundred and nine thousand millions in life insurance. The rest of the world carries only thirty-three thousand millions of life insurance.

Whoever worries about the American dollar, that can buy anything in this kind of a country, is wasting his worry.

A distinguished French banker, deploring "the weakness of the dollar," says, "We are all in for a showdown of strength," meaning "money strength." Uncle Sam, with enough to buy up the rest of the world, is not worrying about that showdown.

MR. WOODIN, Secretary of the Treasury, needed for Uncle Sam one thousand million dollars on five-year notes, paying two and seven-eights interest, plus four hundred millions of "nine-month certificates" paying less than one per cent. These government debts, for the first time, are payable "in lawful money," which means nice paper, not gold.

Nevertheless, Mr. Woodin was offered five thousand millions, when he only asked for one thousand. Somebody seems to think our lawful money is sound and that President Roosevelt knows what he is doing.

PROF. WILLIAM LYON PHELPS, who has been teaching boys at Harvard and Yale for forty-two years, retires at "the automatic retirement age of sixty-eight."

That retirement age for a trained mind is silly. At sixty-eight, and at seventy-eight, a man should do his best teaching.

Pope Leo was hard at work at ninety; Gladstone ran the Liberal party in England at eighty; Titian was painting magnificently when the plague killed him at ninety-nine; Michelangelo at eighty-nine was still working. Why retire an American teacher at sixty-eight?

NEW YORK has a real summer.

On Thursday the temperature was 92. New York said:

"It will not last."

New York was mistaken. Yesterday the thermometer rose to 96 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and later rose to 98 in Central Park.

One hundred were reported killed by seven days' heat throughout the nation. Many died because they were not in physical condition to endure the heat. Ninety-eight is not a killing temperature. Men work hard in temperatures 20 degrees higher.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS was buried yesterday. forty members of the Portland, Me., Men's Singing Club sang two of Mr. Curtis' favorite hymns.

Seventy-five years ago, Mr. Curtis went into business as a newsboy with a total capital of three cents, made money, a great deal of it, but devoted his best efforts to building up a good name.

Time has proved his wisdom. Today he has the good name, and it will last. And he has just three cents less than the original capital with which he started business.

SEE RACKETEER LINK IN FIRE

A possible "racket" fire caused $1,000 damage to a one-story frame building occupied as a lunch room at 6310 Station street, today.

Next door to the lunch room at 6308 is the East End Novelty House, a wholesale beer store. Carmen Logidice is proprietor of both places, police said.

Police are investigating the story told by a woman that she had seen two men in an automobile throw something at the lunch room just before the fire started. Police were seeking her to learn if there was an explosion. Residents of the district did not report hearing a blast.

Three Hurt as Auto Skids, Strikes Pole

An automobile skidded in Brookline boulevard, near West Liberty avenue and struck a pole early today, causing injury to three persons.

They are Katherine Horan, 23, of 178 Warrington avenue; Marian Seekinger, 22, of 335 Climax street, and Robert D. Fulton, 24, of 40 Castle Shannon road. The girls were treated at West Penn Hospital and the man at South Side Hospital.

Score Poisoned By Flavored Ice

A score of Wilmerding residents were recovering today from ptomaine poisoning suffered after eating flavored ice late yesterday.

Five of the victims, Dan Ross, 18, of 140 Middle avenue; Victor Tucker, 3; Ralph Lagorga, 13, of 405 State street; Alice Bronzo, 18, of 213 Bridge street, and Tony Rossa, 24, of Rankin, were treated at the McKeesport Hospital and later returned home.

Boa Sinks Fangs Into Pittsburgher's Hand At Convention

By IRVING NEWMAN
Staff Correspondent.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 10.—Ted H. Heuber, of 241 Atwood street, Pittsburgh, was recovering here today from a snake bite, the result of an accident following a magical effect he presented with a six-foot boa-constrictor last night.

Heuber had won second grand prize at the amateur contest on the last day of the International Brotherhood of Magicians' convention here with the production of the boa from an apparently empty cabinet. Later he was demonstrating the snake to a group of friends when it bit him on the hand. The snake clung tenaciously, its fangs sunk into a large vein, and was removed only with great difficulty. A physician treated the wound. A constrictor's bite is not poisonous, but infection might follow such a bite.

Earlier in the day, Heuber had been elected national secretary of the organization at its business meeting. William Neff, of Indiana, Pa., was awarded a prize in the contest for the presentation of a mental effect.

W. W. Durbin, of Kenton, O., was re-elected president of the society. He has held this office eight years, but announced that he would retire following the present tenure.

Batavia, N. Y., was selected as the convention town for 1934.

The three-day convention, attended by nearly 500 magicians and their families, ended last night with a magic show at the high school auditorium that lasted until long after midnight.

Rescued Colony Under New Siege by Bees

Life is just one swarm of bees after another for residents of Chatham Village.

Last night they kept indoors, fearing a swarm that had settled in the middle of the village.

Police refused to interfere. Sergt. Joseph Kohnke said he knew the swarm would follow the queen, but he couldn't identify the queen. Anyhow it was a hot night.

Then Janitor Frank McGettrick, of St. Mary's of the Mount Catholic Church, went to the rescue. An ex-farmer boy, he readily recognized the queen and put her in a box. The others followed.

He said the bees were an Italian variety, very expensive. He gave them to a farmer friend.

Today another swarm settled near the same spot. Again the residents peered warily from windows and doors. McGettrick said he would look the new colony over.

DEADLY HEAT KEEPS HOLD ON CITY

Mercury Climbing With Toll of 23 Lives in District

Hope of relief from the three-day heat wave that has cost the lives of 23 persons in the Pittsburgh district waned today as threatening storm clouds disappeared. The gathering clouds afforded temporary relief, but it was of short duration.

Starting at 74 at 8 a. m.—eight degrees cooler than yesterday, due to a slight breeze—the mercury began mounting and Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted a temperature of 92 for this afternoon. Clouds which brought temporary relief, were passing he said.

Most of Pennsylvania was cooled by showers, but locally only the Monongahela Valley had showers.

PIRATES, REDS END SERIES

FORBES FIELD, June 10.—Their four-game losing streak snapped by virtue of Steve Swetonic's sparkling slab work of yesterday, the Pirates again had the actions of a flag contender as they loosened up to meet the Reds this afternoon in the last fighting of a three-game series. Bill Swift and Leon Chagnon were both ready to take the Pittsburgh pitching slip in the final. Ray Kolp was on edge to "go" for Acting Manager Jewel Ens.

The Buccos face a big ordeal in the next six days. Gibson's club will hurry to St. Louis after today's game. They must meet the high-flying Cardinals in a double-header tomorrow afternoon. Single battles with the Redbirds will be staged Tuesday and Wednesday. From St. Louis, the Buccos will go to Chicago to take on the Cubs in two games.

Cofferdam Breaks; Men Reported Hurt

Two sections of the cofferdam at Dam No. 2, under construction in the Allegheny River at Aspinwall, collapsed early today. Several men were reported hurt, with one of them catapulted through the window of a rotating crane.

About 50 feet of the cofferdam gave way under pressure of the water. The Vang Construction Company has the contract.

Blast Sets Bathers Afire

NORTH ARLINGTON, N. J., June 10.—(AP.)—Eight persons were known to be dead today and at least 75 were injured by terrific explosions which tore a celluloid plant asunder, fired seven houses and shot sheets of flame into a screaming throng of bathers.

The blasts, which occurred last night, are believed to have caused several other deaths. Many of the injured were in a critical condition.

John E. Guidetti, Bergen County prosecutor's detective, announced clues of incendiarism had been found in the wrecked plant of the Atlantic Pyroxlin Waste Company's plant, and told of being informed of threats of reprisal made against the operator of the plant by business rivals.

Alex Scheinzeit, the operator of the business, was being held on charges of technical manslaughter.

Firemen began a renewed search at dawn, fearing more bodies would be found in the burned houses or in the Passaic River, where bathers fled to escape the flames. At least three of the dead are children.

The heat had brought scores of bathers to a small bathing beach near the plant. As darkness descended, men, women and children lingered, splashing in the water.

Suddenly—an eye witness, John Jackson, said—there was a roar and flames shot upward 200 feet. Burning debris and flaming celluloid fell in showers. New sheets of fire shot outward. Shrieks of people in houses nearby were echoed by the screams of bathers as the flames struck them.

Scorched or severely burned, their bathing suits aflame, many of them plunged toward the river as a second explosion shattered the night. It was the blast of a gasoline tank, spattering fire anew, enveloping a garage and a parked car.

MORGAN QUIZ SPURS TAX REFORMS

Investigation Ended For Summer Months

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP.)—The Senate's investigation of J. P. Morgan & Co. is over, for the present at least, but developing today was a train of consequences which will seriously affect the country's income taxpayers.

Publicity for all tax returns was voted by the Senate last night in an amendment to the industrial control bill, and there was every indication that this removal of secrecy would be made law.

A drive to prevent loss-showing stock sales designed to "evade or reduce" income tax payments, was announced by Guy T. Helvering, the new Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

RESULTS OF QUIZ

Both were the direct results of the Morgan inquiry's disclosures and of previous banking committee investigations. The Morgan partners paid no income tax in 1931 and 1932, and hardly any in 1930 because of losses established from shrinkage of security values.

Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, is on trial now on a tax evasion charge resulting from previous senatorial investigation.

Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, in moving the adoption of the publicity amendment, had asked:

"Does anyone suppose that these evasions which have been revealed would ever have taken place if the taxpayer had known as he sat down to make

NORTH SHORE GOLF CLUB, GLENVIEW, Ill., June 10.—Johnny Goodman, Omaha amateur who shot a record-breaking 66 yesterday to go into the lead in the United States Open golf championship with a 36-hole total of 141, added to his lead this morning when he shot the first three holes of the third round in one under par.

Joe Kirkwood, in third place with 144, dropped two strokes to par on the first three holes, then shot three straight pars. Craig Wood hit a sub-par pace and closed in on Kirkwood.

Tommy Armour, second with 143, was a late starter today, as was Gene Sarazen, 10 strokes back of the pace. Walter Hagen, with 149, started with three 4's.

PRINCE 'WILD,' MAE CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—(AP.)—Mae Murray, star of silent films, filed suit for divorce against Prince David E. M'Divani, in Superior Court yesterday, alleging he was unreasonably jealous, rude to her friends and created embarrassing scenes in the presence of guests.

They were married June 27, 1926, and separated today, the complaint recited.

She said if she so much as danced with another man, her husband would sulk. She added:

"He tried to stifle me.

"I love the theater. I love to dance. I love the public and I know the public loves me.

"I like to have people say 'there goes Mae Murray!' and almost invariably I hear them say 'isn't she gorgeous' and that is the one word that always made David wild."

SENATE ACTS FOR TAX PUBLICITY

Bill for 3 Billions Work Fund Up In House

Developments as Congress nears adjournment today:

1—The Senate voted for publicity on all future income tax returns and for removal of tax exemption on federal, state and municipal securities.

2—Senate and House conferees met to iron out differences on public works-industrial control bill.

3—President Roosevelt summoned the special House veterans' committee as a new break threatened over the White House compromise on veteran's conomy.

4—Congress sent to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature the home mortgage, railroad reorganization and gasoline-electricity tax, postage reduction bills.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP.)—Adjournment tonight was the goal as Congress strove to complete in just one session the monumental emergency program of President Roosevelt, greatest legislative production of peace time.

In the sweltering summer heat, Senate and House were called together early, facing at least 14 hours of tremendous work before the three-month term could be ended at midnight.

The Senate's passage late last night of the $3,300,000,000 public works-industrial control bill, and the agreement of House Democratic leaders to the Chief Executive's compromise proposal on veterans' cuts had made this final adjournment possible, but there was such a haze of parliamentary procedure to untangle that unusual unanimity was required in both Senate and House, unless the close was to be delayed to Monday.

IMPORTANT TASKS

Headlining the day's tasks were: A conference agreement on the much-amended industrial bill; passage by both Senate and House of a list of eleventh-hour appropriations to operate the new governmental machinery created by the session; approval by the Senate of scores of presidential nominations, big and little.

Countless smaller jobs also waited cleaning up.

One of the developments of the day was President Roosevelt's summoning of the special House Veterans' Committee to the White House for a conference on veterans' economy. The President was understood to object to some alterations to the White House compromise plan.

Under President Roosevelt's pressure for closing before the London conference begins Monday, in quick succession both the House and Senate yesterday had stamped final approval on the $2,000,000,000 home mortgage,

McAdoo Too Late to Give Grandchild as Bride

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—(AP.)—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo missed giving away a bride yesterday because he was 15 minutes late.

The former Secretary of the Treasury, held up in Washington by last-minute business, flew here in a chartered airplane to attend the wedding of his granddaughter, Miss Nona McAdoo Martin, but arrived too late to take part in the ceremony.

Senator McAdoo was to have given away the bride, daughter of Mrs. Clayton Platt, Jr. After he failed to make his appearance at the church for the 4 o'clock ceremony, the bride's stepfather, Calyton Platt, Jr., filled the Senator's role.

Miss Martin was married to Mahlon Kline Jordan, a neighbor.

The Senator took a rear seat in the church until the ceremony was ended. Few persons knew he was present until he came forward to congratulate the bride and bridegroom.

railroad reorganization, and gasoline-electricity tax-postage reduction bills, and sent all three to the White House for Mr. Roosevelt's signature.

This tax measure is estimated to raise $135,000,000 toward balancing the budget, and gives President Roosevelt power to reduce first class postage from three to two cents, besides itself cutting local letter rates from three to two cents.

Senate adoption of the industrial recovery bill, which is designed to furnish employment to millions of idle men, improve working conditions and increase wages, besides helping industries to get on a sound competitive basis, assured approval of this keystone in the rehabilitation program.

TAX DIFFERENCES

Though leaders were sure that the majority of changes made by the Senate would be settled by prompt acceptance or rejection in conferences, a wide gulf on the tax program and Senate limitations on the trade practice agreements authorized by the bill, had to be overcome.

As the measure finally passed last night, the tax section to produce $220,000,000 a year for funding the $3,300,000,000 public works bond issue, was almost entirely different from the House schedule which was built around an increase in income taxes. Acceptance of the Senate's plan, designed to be much easier on the small taxpayer, however, was regarded likely.

At issue also was the Senate-inserted provision removing all tax exemption from federal, state and municipal securities, and some controversy was seen over the provision requiring future publicity on all income tax returns, which hitherto have been held secret by the government.

Major troubles, however, were in the bill's industrial section.

The Senate had approved an amendment by Borah, (Rep.) of Idaho, to prevent any restraint of trade or price-fixing under the trade practice codes for which the bill suspends operation of the anti-trust laws. Industrial opposition to this was widespread, many firms protesting they would be able to do nothing under such a limitation.

Vigorous objections also were brought against provisions inserted to facilitate the organization of labor.

Borah insisted his restriction would stay in.

TAX CHOICE

The tax choice to be made in conference was between the following two plans:

Voted by the House—Increased normal income tax from 4 to 6 per cent on first $4,000 and from 8 to 10 per cent on all above; increase of ¾ cent in federal gasoline tax (now 1 cent); application of income rates against corporation dividends.

By the Senate—A tax of 1-10 of 1 per cent on corporation net worth, with a flat 5 per cent additional assessment on earnings above 12½ per cent; a flat 5 per cent tax on corporation dividends to be deducted at source; an increase of ½ cent on the present gasoline tax; three-year extension of corporation consolidated return authority with increase of 1 per cent in income tax rate on consolidated returns, instead of present ¾ of 1 per cent rate-up.

Both bills extend for one year all special excise taxes imposed by the last Congress, which brings in around $400,000,000 a year.

Bill Providing 3 Billions For Work Given House

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP.)—A bill making available $3,459,480,908—most to be spent on public works and the Muscle Shoals—Tennessee Valley project—was rushed before the House today by its appropriations committee.

The purpose of the measure was to give the administration enough money to inaugurate the many recovery projects that already had been approved in bills enacted by Congress and signed by the President.

Just as the Senate last night passed the industrial bill with its $3,300,000,000 authorization for public works, President Roosevelt's request for money to begin the jobs was approved by a House subcommittee.

That sub-committee met until midnight and reconvened at 9 this morning with the full committee, whereupon the measure was formally approved for submittal to the House.

In compliance with a request from the President, the bill appropriates $3,300,000,000 for public works, making not more than $50,000,000 available to the board of the Tennessee Valley project for use as specified in the law recently enacted.

Likewise, the bill allows $40,000,000 for the revolving fund set up by the farm credit bill; $50,000,000 for subscriptions to be paid in surplus of Federal Land banks under the farm mortgage act; $15,000,000 for payments to Federal Land banks to meet reductions in interest from 5 to 4½ per cent as provided by the farm mortgage act; $50,000,000 for subscriptions to preferred shares in federal savings and loan associations under the home mortgage bill; $1,500,000 to set up the new employment service required by the Wagner-Peyser bill, and $2,000,000 for administration of the farm act.

Congress Record Of Achievements

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP.)—Congress, on the verge of adjournment, had this record for the Roosevelt program to look back upon today:

Emergency banking and gold regulation.
Inflation authority for President.
Gold clauses in contracts canceled.
Federal expenditure retrenchment, veterans' funds slashed.
Farm relief, farm mortgage adjustments.
Half billion direct relief granted.
Muscle Shoals and Tennessee Valley development.
Civilian conservation employment corps.
3.2 beer legalized.
Federal-State employment system set up.
Railroad reorganization.
Small home mortgage adjustments.
Gasoline tax, postage cost reduction, power taxation.

Conferees Attempt to Save Glass-Steagall Bank Bill

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(INS.)—Senate and House conferees today met in a last effort to save the Glass-Steagall banking bill, with its death for this session almost certain.

The bill carries stringent provisions divorcing banking affiliates engaged in security dealings, and others aimed at restricting private banking.

It carries an amendment by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, providing for government guaranty of bank deposits up to $2,500. This amendment was the main stumbling block to a conference agreement.

Vandenberg insisted on a no-compromise position by the conferees, despite the opposition of Secretary Woodin. He was pessimistic today over the bill's prospects.

VETS TO ATTEND ENCAMPMENTS

The annual encampment of the Department of Pennsylvania, United Spanish War Veterans, will open at Williamsport, Wednesday, June 21, and continue through Saturday. Protests are expected because of recent cuts in pension appropriations.

There will be a parade and convocation of the Military Order of Serpent, on Friday, and a parade Saturday morning with a field day in the afternoon.

Delegations from Pittsburgh camps of the Department of West Virginia, United Spanish War Veterans, will attend the annual encampment at Wheeling, which opens Sunday, June 18. There will be a parade June 19.

BLAINE NAMED TO R.F.C.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP.)—In a drive to fill gaps in the executive department before Congress adjourns its special session, President Roosevelt yesterday submitted to the Senate the names of men to fill major posts and at the same time nominated more than a score of others to round out other positions.

Among the important nominations sent from the White House were:

John J. Blaine, former Republican Senator from Wisconsin, and C. B. Merriam, of Kansas, to be members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Board, and Basil Manly, of the District of Columbia, to be a Federal Power Commissioner.

Morgan Inquiry Spurs Income Tax Reforms

Investigation Ends For Summer Months

out his return that it is to become a matter of public record?"

Helvering said the Senatorial investigations had caused many people to submit additional tax returns and that his agents were going over with extreme care all returns showing loss-establishing transactions.

The investigators who closed the remarkable hearing last night and released J. P. Morgan, his partners and other important men from the subpenas which have held them here the better part of three weeks, intended to decide today on a program for getting into operations of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co., big private bankers like the Morgan firm, who are due for investigation next.

PROBE TO RESUME

These inquiries probably will be taken up in the fall, due to the imminent adjournment of Congress. In the fall also there may be a sequel to the Morgan inquiry and the committee will go into the question of investment trusts and stock exchange operations.

The long Morgan inquiry ended with a parting shot from the central figure, J. P. Morgan, in which he condemned what he called "unjust criticism" leveled at the selected clients to whom his firm sold stocks at bargain prices.

Morgan's statement was read to the investigators just after they had been presented with two more lists of such customers, clients who obtained Johns-Manville stock at $20 and $30 below market prices.

They were the last of a series of lists. To all named, Morgan had sold stock, from 1927 to 1929, at prices on which the buyers could have reaped almost immediate profits of nearly $35,000,000.

Testimony at the close showed there had been similar Morgan sales in 1920 and 1924, prior to the period covered in the present investigation.

BALANCE SHEET

In the final evidence was a balance sheet of the Morgan house showing that from the first of the year to March 31, its deposits had dropped from $340,000,000 to $238,000,000; its holdings of United States securities dropped from $224,000,000 to $146,000,000; and of state or municipal bonds from $6,700,000 to $1,800,000.

Most of the final day was spent scrutinizing stock transactions of three Morgan partners and the effect on their income tax returns. Near the end Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, began to question Thomas W. Lamont also, but when he failed to remember details, Pecora told him to be ready to answer in the fall.

Two of the partners, it developed—Thomas S. Lamont and Harold Stanley—obtained income tax reductions through stock losses in sales to their wives. The other, William Ewing, detailed an involved story whereby he and his wife loaned stock to trust accounts for their children and obtained money which was held non-taxable.

MORGAN DENIES 'INFLUENCE'

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP.)—In the final chapter of the Senate's investigation of his banking house, J. P. Morgan has inserted a sharp denial that "men of affairs" on the firm's subscriber lists were chosen for "any actual or potential political relations."

The lengthy statement of the financier went straight down the line in defense of his business against attacks and struck out at publication of selected client lists which he said resulted in "an unwarranted criticism of our customers."

Morgan said:

"We protested vigorously against the breach of what we have always assumed to be the confidential relationship of the banker and his customer. Our lists of private subscribers were ntaurally composed of men of affairs and position; but they were selected because of established business and personal relations and not because of any actual or potential political relations.

BRITISH AWAIT U. S. STAND ON DEBT 'TOKEN'

Hope Partial Payment Offer Will Avert Default

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, June 10.—Britain's government today fixed its last, lingering hopes of "hurdling" the June 15 debt instalment owed America on possible acceptance of a $10,000,000 "token" payment proposal by President Roosevelt.

A note outlining the conditional proposal was sent to Washington yesterday, offering the payment as a contribution toward a final settlement so that Britain might avoid making a default on the instalment.

WAIT ANXIOUSLY

Thrusting aside virtually all thought of the World Economic Conference which opens Monday, British officialdom waited anxiously for some indication of how the proposal will be received.

High hopes persisted here the proposal will be accepted as a temporary way "out of the debt difficulties."

It was reported, meanwhile, that Britain has agreed to discuss a final debt settlement in Washington as soon after the opening of the economic conference as possible, for British circles consider it will be impossible for the world parley to reach an important decision until the debt tangle is cleared up.

U. S. GIVES NOTICE

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP.)—Notification that war debts will be due next Tuesday sped through diplomatic channels today to capitals already abuzz with controversy over paying or defaulting.

Following formalities customary to the excited week which always precedes the semi-annual due date, the Washington government sent identical notes to each of the 13 debtor nations which on June 15 will owe the United States a total of $144,179,674.

FRENCH DEFAULT LOOMS

PARIS, June 10.—(AP.)—Two parliamentary votes of confidence in the foreign policy of Premier Daladier's government made it increasingly plain today that France intends again to default on a war debt payment to the United States.

The Premier outlined his foreign plans, touching on the Italo-French relations, the World Economic Conference, the four-power peace pact, and France's determination to stay on the gold standard, but not a word did he say about the $40,000,000 installment due the United States next Thursday.

M'FARLANE NOT CANDIDATE

Judge James R. Macfarlane will not be a candidate for re-election this fall.

In a statement just made public he said:

"I decided nine years ago that in no event would I ever be a candidate for re-election and I have never changed my mind."

Judge Macfarlane was elected in 1902 to succeed the late President Judge Edwin H. Stowe in Common Pleas Court.

MISS HELEN COOLIDGE

WOODRING FLIES TO FIANCEE

FITCHBURG, Mass., June 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marcus A. Coolidge, wife of the junior Massachusetts Senator, surprised a group of luncheon guests yesterday by announcing that her daughter, Miss Helen Coolidge, will be married July 25 to Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war and former governor of Kansas.

Today Secretary Woodring comes to Massachusetts, accompanied by Senator Coolidge, for a tour of inspection of Fort Devens, in Ayer, not far from the Coolidge home. He is to be greeted at the East Boston airport by his fiancee.

An artist of considerable note, Miss Coolidge has spent much time in Washington since her father, a veteran Democratic leader, was elected to the Senate in 1930.

Highland Park Pool Guards Appointed

Edward G. Lang, director of Public Works, announced today the appointment of seven life guards for the Highland Park swimming pool. They are William A. Taylor, H. W. Wagner, Richard A. Koubek, Daniel Small, William A. Ferris, Vernon W. Smith and David Early. They will be paid $4 a day.

Highland Park pool will be opened June 17 and other city pools July 1.

WORLD TRADE PACTS UP TO CONGRESS

Roosevelt Ties Hands Of U. S. Delegation On Tariffs

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—President Roosevelt today served notice on the world that the Congress of the United States will have the final word in any trade agreements concluded with other nations.

He let it be known that he has abandoned the intention of asking Congress for any special authority to change tariff rates or conclude trade agreements which are not approved by the legislative body before becoming effective.

This means the effect of any agreements reached at the World Economic Conference to improve international trade will not be felt until the first of the new year.

DEFINITE PACTS BARRED

Although the President's action will prevent the American delegation at London from concluding definite agreements, Mr. Roosevelt does not feel it will seriously weaken the powers of the delegation.

Government experts, however, expressed the belief the President's decision would be a great disappointment to the American delegation.

Under the changed plans, all agreements negotiated by the delegation will be submitted to Congress for approval, except those coming under the flexible provisions of existing tariff laws.

These provisions enable the President to increase or decrease tariff rates without recourse to Congress up to a maximum of 50 per cent, providing such changes have been recommended by the tariff commission.

U. S. Money Policy To Fore at London

LONDON, June 10.—(AP.)—Monetary and exchange control problems came to the fore today in preparations for the World Economic Conference.

With the arrival of American banking, financial and economic officials and experts, the keenest interest was aroused in world financial quarters over a possible solution of what London economic quarters call the American "enigma"—the American monetary policy.

A drop this week in the dollar exchange has re-emphasized the vital implications in world financial affairs of the eventual stabilization of the dollar.

De facto stabilization is being strongly urged as a prime objective of the conference, which opens Monday with representatives of 67 nations scheduled to attend.

MATTERN HOPS; 2 OVER ATLANTIC

the take-off for an attempted flight to New York from London.

The take-off for a 2,700-mile non-stop flight from New York to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, was announced for late today. Capt. J Erroll Boyd, with two companions will make the flight, using the monoplane Columbia, which has crossed the Atlantic three times.

MATTERN FLIGHT

MOSCOW, June 10.—(AP.)—Jimmy Mattern's hopes for a new around-the-world flight record were apparently shattered today but the plucky American aviator continued his battle with time confident he could establish an outstanding mark for the first solo flight around the globe.

In his Century of Progress he was racing towards Khaborovsk Siberia, today, whence he plans to take off for the trans-Pacific leg of his journey.

The Texan left Beloye, Siberia at 1:50 a. m., Moscow time (6:50 p. m., Friday, Pittsburgh time) and passed over Irkutsk, about 50 miles to the east, exactly 40 minutes later.

With favorable conditions Mattern may be able to make the 1,370-mile jaunt from Irkutsk to Khabarovsk in about 10 hours arriving at the jumping-off place this afternoon.

TWO OVER ATLANTIC

SEVILLE, Spain, June 10.—(AP.)—Two Spanish aviators Capt, Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, were far out over the Atlantic today on a flight to Cuba.

From Havana they planned to proceed directly to Mexico City.

At 4:15 o'clock Capt. Barberan and Lieut. Collar entered their plane, Los Cuatro Vintos (The Four Winds), dressed in white overalls and white coats. They waited until 4:40 until they started their motors, and five minutes later they were on their way.

Postmaster Plans To Fight Removal

TITUSVILLE, Pa., June 10.—(AP.)—Postmaster W. C. Jones says he has been removed from office on orders of Joseph C. O'Mahoney, First Assistant Postmaster General, "because of facts disclosed during an investigation."

He said he will demand of the Postoffice Department that specific charges be outlined.

Society Women Prefer Wine, Says Mrs. Boole

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(AP.)—Asserting that "wet millionaires and certain society women" have loaned respectability to the movement for repeal, Mrs. Ella Boole says the society women will not be satisfied to serve beer at their social functions.

Mrs. Boole, national president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, addressed the Philadelphia County chapter in annual conference last night and charged the repeal movement is receiving much support from abroad.

She named the "international wine office" in Europe as "furnishing much of the ammunition used by repealists," and declared:

"The brewers and distillers have not appeared publicly as the advocates of repeal in recent years, but respectability has been given the movement by certain wet millionaires and by certain society women who have led the campaign for repeal.

"Will that group of society women who have been advocating repeal be satisfied with beer? I am sure that the members of the women's national organization for prohibition reform will not serve beer at society functions. They want wine, imported wine."

BUSINESS LEAVES 'RED' AS RAIL, STEEL GAINS CONTINUE

OBSERVERS SEE DEFINITE UPTURN

Industrial Activities Here Hailed Boon To Nation

Pittsburgh's business is definitely leaving the "red" and moving into the black columns of the ledger, as revealed by railroad, coal and steel activities, observers here are convinced. For five successive weeks carloadings in the Central Region of the Pennsylvania Railroad have passed the level of the same weeks last year, it was learned from an authoritative source.

The entire month of May showed a 15 per cent advance in loadings compared with May, 1932, and the average daily car loadings for the first five days of this month were five per cent above the average for May.

The average coal movement in this region in May was 14 per cent ahead of last year, marking the first time in several months that coal movement has passed that of the corresponding month of the previous year.

IRON LOADINGS GAIN

Loadings of iron and steel products on the Pennsylvania in the Pittsburgh district, including Johnstown, Pa.; Weirton, W. Va., and Uniontown, Pa., during May were 39 per cent ahead of last year.

It was established that new crews are being put to work every day, getting cars and engines out of storage and increasing facilities to meet the growing demands.

These figures have a far-reaching effect on national recovery, it is pointed out by industrialists, as the territory served by the Pennsylvania's Central Region comprises the nation's greatest area of production of capital goods, heavy machinery, equipment of various kinds and basic construction materials which are used in the manufacture of countless articles used throughout the world.

The territory includes Altoona, Columbus, Buffalo, Cleveland, Erie, Akron, Canton and Wheeling.

BLAST FURNACE RESUMES

Contributing to this encouraging news is the report of the Carnegie Steel Company that another blast furnace will be "blown in" today at the Edgar Thomson works at Braddock. This will be the second furnace placed in operation at the works within the last 10 days, the announcement said.

Increasing steel orders with prospective better demand for pig iron are credited with this new advance in production.

Operation at the Riverside blast furnace, Wheeling, W. Va., one of the largest in the world, will be resumed July 1, it was announced by the Wheeling Steel Corporation. One thousand men will be added to the company's payroll by the move, officials said.

A loan of $150,000 has been granted by the R. F. C. to Ambridge for construction of a water plant, it was learned.

BOWMAN GETS RUTGERS LL.D.

Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, received the degree of doctor of laws today at the 167th commencement of Rutgers University, according to word from New Brunswick, N. J. Chancellor Bowman made the commencement address.

Dr. Robert C. Clothier, president of Rutgers and formerly dean of men at Pittsburgh, in conferring the degree praised Dr. Bowman's career as an educator. He described the Cathedral of Learning as a symbol of "the high destiny to which American education is pledged—that every boy and girl shall achieve his fullest stature in mind, character and soul."

President Roosevelt received the same degree "in absentia", he being detained in Washington.

Raiders Take Stills In House and Barn

Four stills were seized in three raids by state troopers and federal agents yesterday. Two men were arrested. The raids were staged at a house in Olympia street, a house in Freeport road, Harmarville, and a barn in Babcock boulevard, Ross Township, according to the reports.

tures throughout the United States.

100-DEGREE MARK

The Southwest was again visited by 100-degree temperatures.

The death total reached 23 at 6 a. m. today with the discovery of the body of an unidentified boy in the Allegheny River near Lock 4, Natrona. The victim is believed to be Edward Klimczyk, 13, of 606 Linden avenue, New Kensington, drowned yesterday.

Phillip Martini, 56, of 67 Pittock street, Stowe Township, died in the Ohio Valley Hospital shortly after he was overcome by the heat in his home, according to a Coroner's report.

Junior Banks, 11, Negro, of Grace street extension, was drowned while bathing in the Monongahela River under the Wabash Bridge.

Edward Klinszyk, 13, of 606 Linden avenue, New Kensington, was drowned in the Allegheny River at the foot of Fourth street, New Kensington.

Joseph Silveroli, 17, of Gatelodge street, a Fifth Avenue High School pupil, was drowned in the Monongahela River under the Glenwood Bridge, according to a Coroner's report.

Mrs. T. W. Coffey, 40, collapsed and died in her home at 703 Monticello street.

YOUTH DROWNS

Edward Skillen, 19, of 2831 Frederick street, was drowned in the Ohio River at the foot of Franklin street.

George A. Rush, 55, of 110 Card avenue, street commissioner of Wilmerding, was stricken by the heat yesterday afternoon while working on the street on the north side of Wilmerding. He was taken to his home in a serious condition in a police ambulance.

F. L. Rose, 52, former superintendent of West Homestead schools, collapsed in his home, Interborough avenue, Lincoln place, yesterday.

More than 400 children took possession of Lake Elizabeth yesterday and blocked the annual toy sail boat regatta. The lake was not to be opened to swimmers until June 17. Police were called but they could not remove the children from the water. The regatta was postponed.

LIGHT 'MAKE UP' FOR HOT DAYS

Pittsburgh women whose complexion cares have increased during the last few days of intensive heat were flocking to Mlle Odette, French make-up artist at Boggs and Buhls, today for hot-weather complexion hints.

Avoid heavy make-ups on hot days, Mlle Odette advises. She said:

"If you look cool, that will go a long way toward making you feel cool. Older women especially should use light make-up in summer! Use plenty of creams for cleansing during hot weather. Pores clogged with yesterday's make-up will have a hard time eliminating today's natural oils, so necessary to keep the skin from drying from exposure to sun and wind."

Accompanying Mme. Odette is Marcel Crimaud, hair stylist from Paris, who combines hot-weather comfort with individual styles in the summer coiffure.

Ohio Senate Votes For Minimum Wage

COLUMBUS, O., June 10.—(AP.)—Legislative action on a bill to provide a minimum wage for women and children in Ohio industry was completed last night when the State Senate passed the measure by a vote of 31 to 0 and sent it to Gov. White.

The federal government, through President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Francis Perkins, had urged passage by the Legislature of the wage bill and another measure to provide unemployment insurance. The latter has passed the House of Representatives.

Aimee's Missing David Only Peddling Scenario

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—(AP.)—Some of the smoke from the smouldering wrangle in Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton's Angelus Temple had been puffed away today by official announcements which revealed the evangelist's husband, David, was trying to hawk a scenario in Hollywood, and Mrs. Hazel Caldwell, Bible teacher, wasn't missing after all.

Sheriff's Deputy C. C. Blaisdell, who has been investigating the seven-day disappearance of Mrs. Caldwell, announced that Mrs. Lyston Harding, mother of Mrs. Caldwell, knew of her daughter's whereabouts.

Blaisdell quoted Mrs. Harding as saying when she was confronted with evidence that the day before Mrs. Caldwell disappeared she transferred a credit account to her mother:

"The case is in God's hands and is no business of the law's."

Blaisdell's revelation halted an official investigation of Mrs. Caldwell's disappearance. Her husband, S. L. Caldwell, is secretary of the board of elders of Angelus Temple. When she disappeared hints of kidnaping were heard and temple officials said she and David had quarreled over internal affairs.

Temple officials revealed the evangelist's baritone-singing husband was striving to make his own way in the world by attempting to sell a scenario in Hollywood. Hutton departed from the temple yesterday without explanation.

CO-EDS AGREE ON ETIQUETTE FORMULA

'No Nice Girl Swears' Wins Approval on Pitt Campus

"Modern" girls seem still to be old-fashioned when it comes to taking presents from male friends.

Etiquette advice by Miss Alice-Leone Moats in her new very piquant book, "No Nice Girl Swears," now appearing in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, is that no nice girl will accept jewelry or wearing apparel from an admirer. Flowers, books and candy, Miss Moats says, remain the only acceptable presents. Vice versa, a nice girl doesn't give the boy friend expensive gew-gaws.

Miss Dent Strock, Pitt co-ed prominent in campus affairs, is among the modern girls who back up Miss Moats' advice. She says:

"I completely agree with that etiquette rule and personally I would not accept jewelry or wearing apparel. Flowers, candy and books—of course!"

HEAT SHARPENS OLSEN MUSIC

George Olsen, famous orchestra leader, sweltered in Pittsburgh's heat today, explaining:

"This weather is good for just one thing. It makes the music a little sharper."

He is playing at the Willows at Oakmont. With him is his wife, Ethel Shutta, musical comedy and radio star. Olsen said:

"This is the first time that I have ever taken my wife with me on a trip. Can you imagine the fine time she is having with this blistering weather?"

The grinning leader and his band arrived yesterday in a special bus. He said:

"The whole 18 of them were wearing nothing but their underwear shirts and trunks. Everybody thought it was a track team."

Barbara Hutton to Hold Purse After She Weds Prince Mdivani

MISS BARBARA HUTTON AND HER FIANCE, PRINCE ALEXIS . . . SHE'LL KEEP HER MILLIONS

BELLE OF FIRST '400' DIES AT 96

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Algernon Sydney Sullivan, who danced quadrilles with King Edward VII when he was Prince of Wales and who was one of the last survivors of Ward McAllister's original "400," died yesterday at the age of 96.

She had suffered from pneumonia for several weeks. With her when she died was her only immediate survivor, a son, George Hammond Sullivan, an attorney.

Mrs. Sullivan led every grand march of society's annual charity ball from 1883 until 1920, dancing with the Prince of Wales, Levi P. Morton, former Vice President of the United States, and other notables. She was reputed to have been the only woman living who danced at the first charity ball, in 1857.

Alexis to Get Large 'Settlement,' Not Control of Millions

PARIS, June 10.—(AP.)—Miss Barbara Hutton, of New York, granddaughter of the late F. W. Woolworth, remains mistress of her many millions under her marriage contract with Prince Alexis Mdivani, Georgian nobleman, it was learned today.

She will "retain complete control of the disposition of her entire property," according to William S. Pauling-Emrich, international consulting lawyer. He is advising two New York attorneys who are drafting the contract, which also limits the Prince's inheritance in case of the death of his wife.

M. Pauling-Emrich refused to divulge further details, but friends of the Prince said he was getting a large marriage settlement.

Miss Hutton and the Prince will be married in Paris June 20.

2 FOUND SLAIN NEAR CLUB

HARRISON, N. Y., June 10.—(AP.)—The bodies of two flashily dressed young men were found early today lying side by side in a roadway near the fashionable Westchester Country Club.

Each had been shot in the abdomen and stabbed. In their pockets were found rolls of bills totaling $1,100.

Every mark had been cut from their clothing and, although the money was untouched, the pockets showed signs of having been rifled of other identification.

Police were investigating whether the men were killed by gangsters.

Man Slain on 'Ride' As Storm Rages

HILLSIDE, N. J., June 10.—(INS.)—During the height of an electrical storm which raged in this section today, a man—tentatively identified as Albert Goldfeeder, 34—was "taken for a ride."

His bullet-riddled body was tossed out of an automobile a short distance from the home of Norman Sarford, chief of police.

Pittsburgh Girls Graduating in East

Three Allegheny County girls will be graduated from Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., Monday. They are Helen E. Singleton, 3360 Perrysville avenue; Elsie U. Ward, 1060 Morewood avenue, and Margaret McElderry, 320 Dalzell avenue, Ben Avon.

ROOSEVELT SON AND GIRL DENY ROMANCE

Wife Still Friendly, Says 'First Lady,' Ending Flight

RENO, Nev., June 10.—(AP.)—Elliott Roosevelt added his denial to that of Miss Ruth Googins yesterday when he spiked as untrue reports he and the attractive Fort Worth brunette might be married after his Nevada divorce from the former Elizabeth Donner, of Philadelphia.

Earlier in the day Miss Googins had denied existence of a romance between herself and the second son of the President.

Young Roosevelt came into Reno from Lake Tahoe for a conference with his attorney, Samuel Platt, and, although advised by Platt "not to say a word," he quite readily admitted an acquaintance with Miss Googins and then laughingly hastened to deny she was more than just a good friend.

POSED WITH GIRL

He said:

"It's a wonder that they haven't got me in a romance with Helene Madison, the swimmer. We posed for a picture together down at Palm Springs, you know."

Elliott first came to Nevada May 27 and has been residing at Elk Point, Lake Tahoe, since, with the exception of his brief visit with his mother in Los Angeles. The days he was absent from the state will have to be made up before either he or his wife will be eligible to file suit.

Residing with him as a companion at Lake Tahoe is Ralph V. Hitchcock, and the two, Elliott revealed, plan to live as rugged an outdoor life as possible.

DENIES RUMOR

NEWARK, N. J., June 10.—(Universal.) — Arriving here by plane from the West yesterday, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was met by a volley of questions regarding the marital status, present and future, of her son, Elliott, who has established a residence in Reno for the purpose of divorce.

Mrs. Roosevelt said it was "ridiculous" to say that Elliott was engaged to another girl while still married. Asked to the possibility of an announced romance after the divoree, Mrs. Roosevelt commented:

"Well, the Lord knows.

"These youngsters nowadays—they get engaged 15 or 20 times and it doesn't mean a thing. Elliott posed for pictures with some movie actress—I don't remember what her name is—and immediately the newspapers had him engaged."

Asked specifically if young Elliott plans to marry Ruth Goggins, 25, brunette of Fort Worth, Tex., the President's wife said:

"I suppose that at a time like this there would be reports that he was going to marry 10 different people."

LACK OF HARMONY

Mrs. Roosevelt told of the lack of harmony which brought the rift between Elliott and his wife, wife.

"They were absolutely incompatible. They were incompatible from the start. I could have told them that before they were married, but you know how children are. But there is no ill feeling between them. In fact, Elizabeth is coming up to our camp this summer.

"They will reach an agreement on the disposition of their child."

Mrs. Roosevelt was met at the airport by Mrs. Curtis Dall, her daughter.

Mrs. Dall when asked whether her married life flowed smoothly, laughed and answered:

"I spent almost the entire day yesterday answering questions of that kind, and I answered 'No, no, no!' to all of them."

'PEEP HOLES' WELL CONCEALED AT NEW POSTOFFICE

THE OBSERVATION BALCONY IN NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING

Inspectors Will Be Able to Survey All Rooms

You won't be able to get a "peep" at the peepholes in Pittsburgh's new postoffice.

It's not new for Uncle Sam to have peepholes in his postoffices so that postal inspectors may keep a "watchful eye" on every person entering the building. But it is new to have places for these "watchful eyes" so constructed they are invisible from the corridors of the building, according to M. Wortheimer, assistant architect. In the new structure they are hidden in the galleries behind the walls.

They are cleverly concealed in the cornices of the rooms and appear to be only a part of the plaster decoration. Every room in the postal department can be surveyed by the watchers.

30 Firms Joining In Good Will Tour

Thirty leading business houses of the city have booked reservations for four good will tours through the Pittsburgh trading district this summer under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The first tour will leave the Chamber of Commerce at 9 a. m. Wednesday and return via Wheeling the following day.

Everything Taxed From Autos to Horse Collars

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

New York is having fierce taxation squabble and there ain't been so much indignation since Pete Stuyvesant poked holes in new paving with his wooden leg.

The administration is going to tax motor cars, bridges, bird cages, mustache cups, folding doors and hoss collars.

The object is to raise thirty million dollars by September.

The bankers want the golden cabbage in that month. But we will fool 'em. If we cannot raise the money we will hide all the lumberyard calendars.

Drivers of cars are squawking loud, long and rasping. They say they will walk before they will pay the bridge tax. Walking over bridges is a bad habit. It leads to jumping.

The tax solves one congested traffic problem. By taxing motor cars out of existence it finally gives us some parking space.

CHILDREN'S DAY TO BE MARKED TOMORROW

Hundreds of Pittsburgh Sunday School members tomorrow will take part in Children's Day exercises.

A pageant, "The Steps," will be given in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church at 11 a. m.

The Rev. Sherman H. Epler, of the Erie Conference, will give a chalk talk during services in the Ben Avon Methodist Episcopal Church at 10:30 a. m.

An illustrated sermon will mark the Children's Day program in the First Presbyterian Church, Wilkinsburg, at 11 a. m. Baptism will take place in the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church and the Fourth United Presbyterian Church.

In addition to Children's Day programs, Trinity Day will be observed in Pittsburgh Churches.

CHURCH CHOIR SINGS MISSA

A mass—"Missa in Honorem Epiphaniae Domini" composed by the noted organist and choirmaster, Otto Mrezek for the Epiphany Church and so dedicated will be sung for the first time in Epiphany Catholic Church, Washington Place, tomorrow at 11 o'clock, with the approval of the Diocesan Music Commission. It is a mass written for three male voices in the accepted Cecilian style, flowingly melodious and on its harmonious side conservative.

For this occasion the composer, who is organist and choirmaster of St. Matthew's Church, Youngstown O, will bring his famous Youngstown Choir of 23 men to augment the Epiphany choir.

Two Pastors Here Awarded Degrees

Two Pittsburgh ministers received doctor of divinity degrees during the past week. Last Wednesday, the Rev. G. Elmer Swoyer, of Mt. Zion Lutheran Church, North Side, was honored at Thiel College, where he was commencement speaker.

On Thursday, the Rev. Thomas H. Newcomb, of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church, Perrysville avenue, North Side, was awarded his degree at the commencement exercises of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., his alma mater.

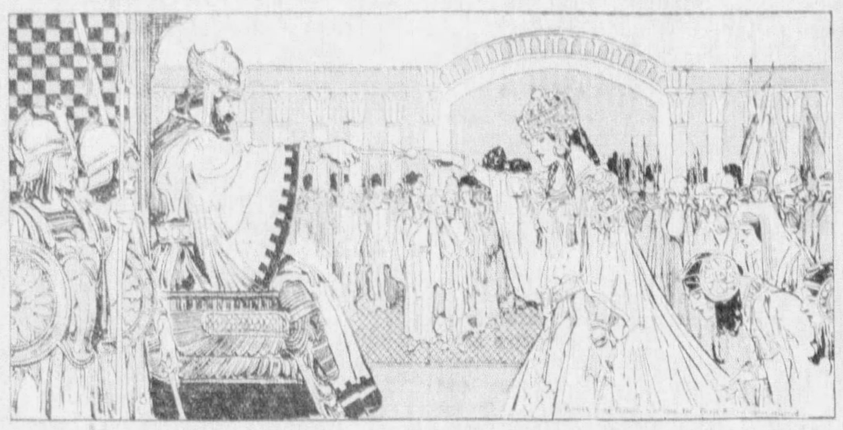
North Side Church To Mark 45th Year

The Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, North Side, will observe its forty-fifth anniversary tomorrow. The Rev. G. J. Muller, pastor, will preach at 10:30 a. m. The Rev. Dr. William J. Finck, who organized the congregation in 1889 and served it until 1890, will speak at 3 p. m.

On Wednesday a young people's service will close the celebration. The Rev. H. H. Bagger, president of the Pittsburgh Lutheran Synod, will speak.

The Story of Queen Esther -:- CHAPTER VII -:- Told in Pictures by Dan Smith

King Xerxes having decreed death to the Jews, Queen Esther, herself a Jewess, sorely distressed, dresses her self beautifully to go into the presence of the King.



Appearing in the Royal presence, Esther approached at the King's command. He extended his golden sceptre and asked her what was her desire. "Anything you wish is yours—even to the half of my kingdom!" Esther replied that she merely wanted the King and Haman to dine with her at the Queen's palace.

A messenger was swiftly dispatched to Haman, the King's captain, who had instigated the decree against the Jews, inviting him to be a guest at the banquet. (Continued next week.)

METROPOLITAN CHURCH AREA ESTABLISHED

In a pronounced departure from the policy of his predecessors, Bishop Adna W. Leonard has created a Metropolitan Pittsburgh district for the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He announced the plan at the conclusion of the one hundred and tenth Pittsburgh conference in the Bellevue church last night just before he handed down the ministerial appointments. About two score changes in pastorates were made.

FOUR ZONES PROVIDED

Under the new plan Pittsburgh and suburbs are designated as the Pittsburgh district and all churches are placed under the supervision of the Rev. Dr. L. D. Spaugy, formerly head of the McKeesport district. Three other districts are provided for—the Monongahela, Blairsville and Allegheny. The old Washington and McKeesport districts are abolished.

Bishop Leonard said he believed the move would result in greater "efficiency and district consciousness." Heretofore portions of Pittsburgh were allotted to each of the four districts.

The Rev. Dr. W. S. Trosh is superintendent of the Allegheny district; the Rev. Dr. R. W. McKenzie, of the Blairsville district, and the Rev. Dr. B. R. McKnight, of the new Monongahela district.

SEWICKLEY PASTOR MOVED

Among the shifts of ministers in the Pittsburgh district was that of the Rev. H. A. Welday of Sewickley, to the North Avenue Church. Dissension had existed in the Sewickley church, a number of trustees having been replaced, according to reports, at the instance of Mr. Welday.

The Rev. J. V. Wright, of Canonsburg, was assigned to take Mr. Welday's place at Sewickley. The Rev. G. L. C. Richardson, of Carnegie, and the Rev. E. P. Harper, of the Lincoln Avenue Church, Pittsburgh, exchanged pulpits.

The Rev. C. W. Campbell, of Knoxville, was assigned to South Greensburg; the Rev. R. S. Harding, of Aspinwall, to Canonsburg, and the Rev. W. S. Boyd, of North Avenue, to Aspinwall.

The Rev. W. J. Law, of the Ballantyne Church, McKeesport, will go to Ames Church, Pittsburgh, and the former pastor of Ames Church, the Rev. R. P. Graham, will take Dr. Law's place at the Ballantyne Church.

Other changes include the Rev. C. M. Sherbourne, Fourth street, Braddock, to Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg; the Rev. W. L. Morgan, Confluence, to Pacific avenue, Pittsburgh; the Rev. J. C. Burnworth, Fayette City, to Fourth street, Braddock; the Rev. S. E. Rodkey, Pacific avenue, Pittsburgh, to Hoboken; the Rev. H. M. Carnahan, North End, to Knoxville; the Rev. H. E. Rudolph, Aliquippa, to First Church, New Brighton; the Rev. G. M. Hartung, Hoboken, to Verona; the Rev. H. B. Mansell, First Church, New Brighton, to Aliquippa; the Rev. Paul Weyand Arnold, to Ligonier; the Rev. Alexander Steele, Ligonier, to Arnold; the Rev. O. E. Rodkey, Carmichaels, to Claysville, and the Rev. A. C. Schultz, Brushton, to Oakmont.

FAVOR SOCIALIST SYSTEM

In adopting a report of the social service commission the conference went on record as favoring the socialistic system as opposed to capitalism. The report described capitalistic society as "inefficient and wasteful."

It also flayed "puppet" legislators, described as favorites of financiers and industrialists, for the defeat of social legislation such as old-age pension, child labor laws, minimum wage laws and unemployment insurance.

The conference went on record as strongly opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Branding the Canadian legalized liquor traffic as a failure, the conference declared its conviction that if repeal is accomplished this nation will soon regret its action.

The conference voted to change the time of the annual meeting from June to October. The next meeting of the conference will be held October 4, 1934.

Two Baccalaureate Services Tomorrow

Baccalaureate services will be held in the Bellevue Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. The Rev. H. B. Stoddard, of the Baptist Church, will preach on "A Glorious Adventure." The Perry High School baccalaureate service will be held in the North United Presbyterian Church, Perrysville avenue, at 8 p. m.

Dr. Jones to Preach Waynesburg Sermon

The Rev. Dr. W. A. Jones, associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Waynesburg College, Waynesburg, Pa., at 8 p. m. tomorrow. He will speak on "Essentials in the Building of Character."

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
–With–
Patricia Pitt

Another bride of June will be Margaret Mathilda Squires, daughter of Mrs. Fred E. Squires, of Oakmont. She has named Friday as the date for her marriage, to take place in Arnold's Park, Iowa.

Among those who've entertained for her have been Mrs. Dorothy Tiers Verner, Mrs. Walter Cree, Mrs. W. N. Ogden and Mrs. George Quelch, Sara Jane Dixon, Virginia Lees, Mrs. Franklin Eves and Jean Streeter, Mrs. Ronald St. Pierre and Rebecca Pilgram.

Highland Country Club guest day for women golfers has been postponed from June 20 to August 8.

The Wildwood Country Club has set tonight as the date of its first summer dinner-dance. The first bridge will be held at the club Tuesday with luncheon at 1 o'clock. In charge will be Mrs. Mae Ladley, chairman; Mrs. Roy Huntsman, Mrs. C. A. Hahn, Mrs. George Kramer and Mrs. W. A. Kober.

In honor of the seniors of Sewickley Academy and of the faculty, Mrs. William Craig Meanor, of Sewickley, gave a luncheon in her home yesterday. Katherine Meanor, her younger daughter, is a member of the graduating class.

Lida Baldridge, Bride-Elect, Much Feted

A bride of June 24 is being feted during the weeks prior to her marriage. She is Miss Lida Corey Baldridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Baldridge, of Oakview avenue, Edgewood, whose marriage to Harry Willis Penney, son of Mrs. Francis Penney, of Leominster, Mass., is to take place that afternoon in the chapel of the Edgewood Presbyterian Church.

Today Miss Lida and Miss Anna Harris, cousins of the bride-elect, are giving a bridge in their home in her honor and two other cousins, Miss Rebecca and Miss Betty McCready are to entertain on Thursday in her honor.

Miss Harriett and Miss Margaret Bailey, of Trenton avenue, Edgewood, will be hostesses at a party in their home next Saturday and Miss Dorothy Ballantyne also will give a party for Miss Baldridge. The rehearsal will be the Thursday evening prior to the wedding.

Crafton Heights Women Elect New Officers

Officers newly-elected by the Crafton Heights Woman's Club are: President, Mrs. Leslie J. Dodds; vice president, Mrs. A. A. Putnam; recording secretary, Mrs. J. J. Pannabaker; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Taylor; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Kirkland. Directors are Mrs. H. E. Woernely, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. C. F. Beachler, Mrs. I. S. Dunmeyer, Mrs. C. E. Ruth and Mrs. H. W. Garffius.

Woman's Club to Tour Cathedral of Learning

A tour of the Cathedral of Learning will supplement the luncheon to be given Monday in the College Club by the East Liberty Woman's Club. Mrs. A. Nicholson is taking reservations.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Little Jeanie Baird McKnight, daughter of the Francis H. McKnights, of Sewickley, is trying to be as fearless in the water as her older but almost as tiny sister, Laura Lucci McKnight.

Laura holds her nose, and jumps nonchalantly into the little Sewickley Creek swimming pool.

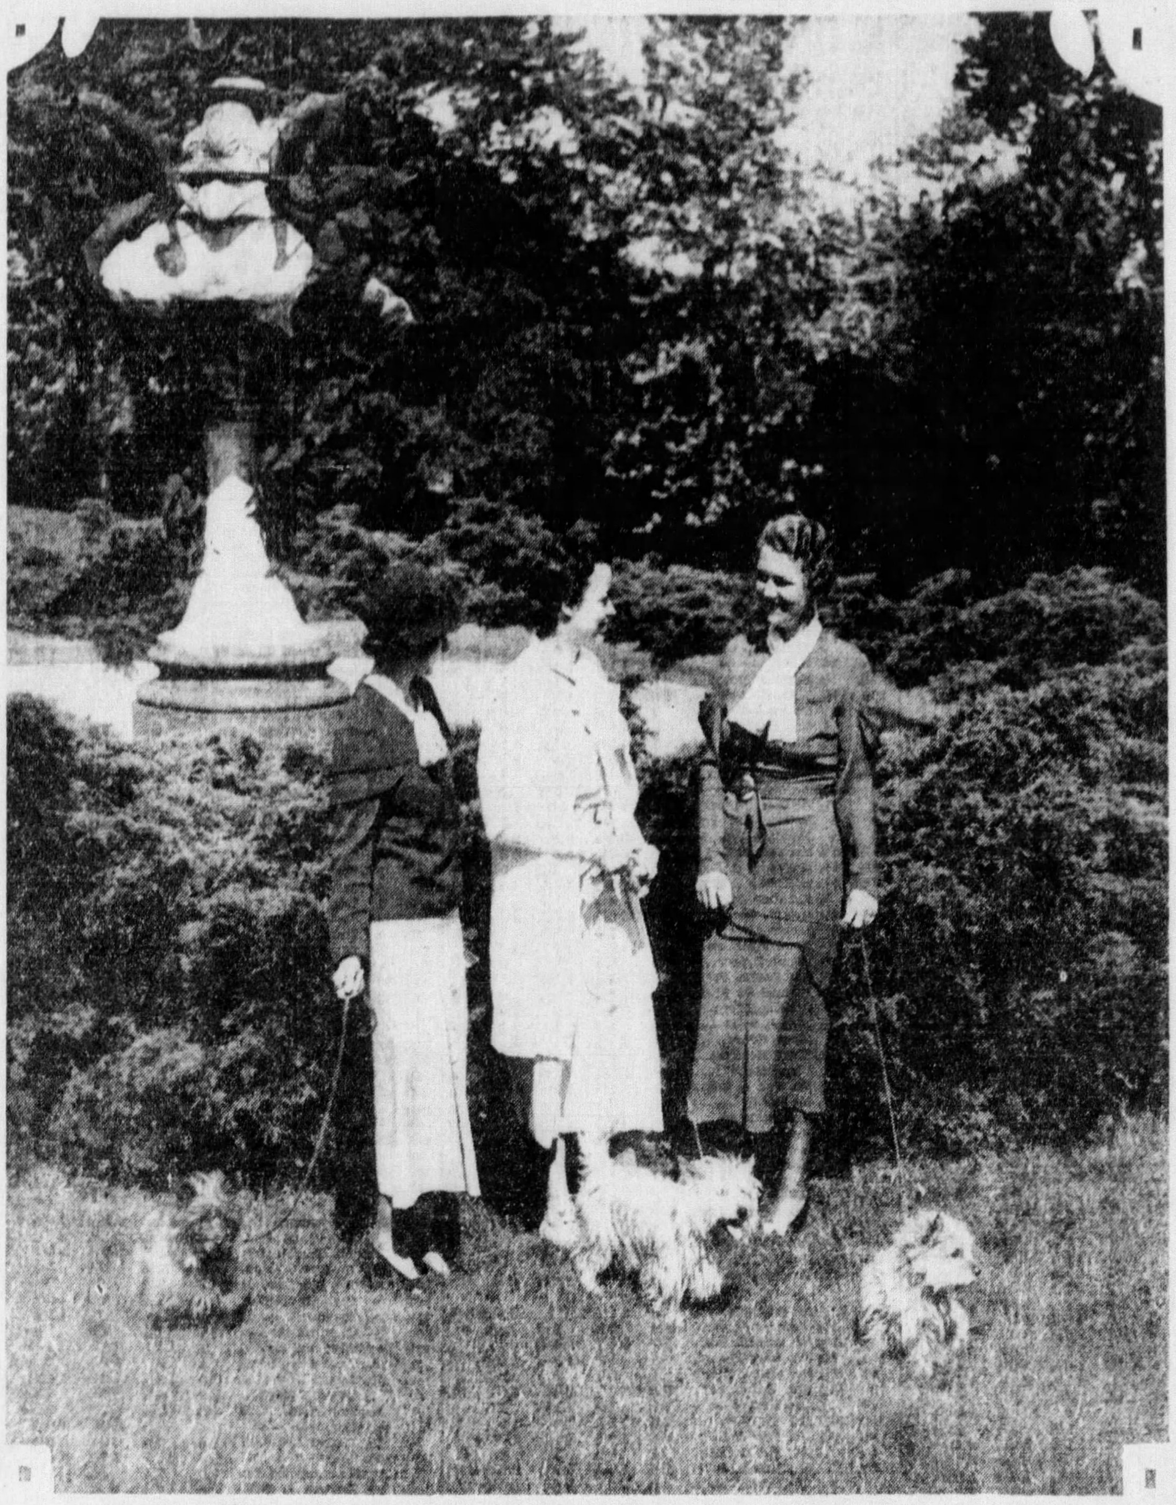
The other day Jeanie, or Jee-Jee, as she's called, waded into the water, covered her whole face with her hands, dipped just her face in the water, ostrich-fashion, then ran to her mother, crying, "Mummy, me went under water, too."

Just at one of the busiest times in her life, Mrs. Charles W. Houston has lost her voice—from a cold.

She's chairman of the rummage sale the Civic Club will hold in the former Campbell's department store, Fifth avenue, Thursday and Friday.

A cool thought for spectators-to-be at the Sewickley Gymkhana a week from today in the Allegheny Country Club show ring—not only is the grandstand covered, but its always breezy.

AIDES FOR TEA AT THE PITTSBURGH FIELD CLUB



MISS EUPHEMIA TRIMBLE MISS ELIZABETH SMITH MISS ELINORE LEIDENROTH

Three of the prominent young women who served as aides at the Allegheny County League of Women Voters' bridge tea held yesterday at the Pittsburgh Field Club comparing pet dogs in the midst of garden loyliness. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Miss Anna May Vortish Married to E. D. Canaga

At a quiet ceremony at 5 o'clock this afternoon, Miss Anna May Vortisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Vortisch, of Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, becomes the bride of Edward Douglas Canaga, son of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Canaga, of Cadiz, O., in the study of the second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg.

Officiating will be the Rev. H. H. McConnell. After June 25, Mr. Canaga and his bride will be at home in Edgewood.

The scholarship benefit which the Homewood Women's Club is to give Monday in Spear's has been changed from a tea to a luncheon, which will be served at 1 o'clock. Mrs. George W. Postgate is chairman.

Miss Margaret Hanson To Marry J. C. Reed IV

Mrs. Agnes Hanson, of Tiffin, O., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret Hanson, to John C. Reed IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Reed, of Ben Avon.

Miss Hanson is a graduate of Heidelberg College, Tiffin, O., and Mr. Reed of Culver Military Academy and of Cornell University.

ROLLER SKATING FAD PROMOTES INTRIGUING SPORTS COSTUMES

ROLLER SKATING, that newly reinstated sport, gains in popularity daily. Fashion and fun account for it. Debutantes and dowagers (either openly or behind private walls) are scooting around on roller skates—the more expert not on traditional four-wheelers, but on low-slung stream-line skates instead!

THE INCENTIVE of charity inspired a recent fashion show on skates at the Central Park Casino, with many of New York City's prettiest girls serving as mannequins on wheels. Those who didn't skate had almost as much fun watching, and certainly looked as smart. Fashion had a gay day. Over it all hovered the spirit of old dame "Gibson Girl" in petticoated skirt and perilously-tipped sailor hat. She offered sharp contrast to the practical shirt-and-shorts and sweater-and-skirt outfits worn by skaters whirling around the Mall.

SOME OF the best fashions worn there were sketched. One 15-year-old wore a red, white and blue striped summer sweater, with white skirt cut full enough to discreetly "skate" the curves. On her head a pique bias head-band fastened with galalith rings, simulating the wheels on skates. Another amusing gadget, developed especially for skating, was the clever new pique Zip-on belt. Wear it whatever else you do. It has a convenient zipper pocket for skate key or change purse, should you care for refreshments on the way home.

A TINY skull cap, with silly peak skyrocketing above, was of silk hand-crochet with contrasting bands and a tassel. It has that certain-something young girls adore.

NOT "GIBSON GIRL" high buttoned shoes, but good-looking white service calf oxfords, firm enough to hold the skate clamps, were worn. Ankle socks and fleece-lined guards protected tender insteps.

* * *

NOW ABOUT spectator clothes. They were equally gay. The jacket of one linen swagger suit had an amusing modified ruff slightly reminiscent of a vivacious Pierrette. After the bright blue coat, focal interest centered on the hemline of the white linen dress beneath, slit and overlapping in a most original way. A casual brimmed linen hat topped the costume.

Sorority to Give Bridge, Install This Evening

The Phi Chi Theta sorority of the University of Pittsburgh is holding installation of officers and a bridge party this evening in the home of Mrs. Ida Schewe, Meade street, Wilkinsburg.

The new officers are Miss Laura Butts, president; Miss Alfarata McAlonan, vice president; Miss Frances Beard, treasurer; Miss Marion Thompson, secretary; Mrs. Mary Porter, social chairman; Miss Gladys Simmonds, committee chairman; Miss Grace Corning, reporter.

Mrs. Reizenstein Heads Workshop Visiting Unit

Mrs. Charles L. Reizenstein has been made chairman of a committee to invite organizations to visit the Workshop for the Blind, in Craig street, during the summer. Appointments to tour the headquarters and see the work done by the blind will be taken care of by her.

Credit Women to See Summer Fashion Show

At the June meeting of the Pittsburgh Credit Women's Association, Tuesday in the Congress of Clubs, Miss Elsie Hoewischer, of Boggs and Buhl, will give a talk, illustrating it with a summer style show.

Rumania Latest Country Welcomed to Rank of International B.P.W.

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Rumania is the latest country to come into the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Announcement has just been made that a national federation has been formed with Princess Alexandrine Cantacuzene as president. It was she who was such a gracious hostess to the Good Will Tour members visiting Rumania in 1931.

Miss Ecaterina Gerchez, head of a school in Bucharest, and Mrs. Wally Alexandrescu, a publicist, who were also among the good-will hostesses, are on the executive council. Others include Mrs. Aida Vrioni, a distinguished Rumanian writer, and Mrs. Ing. Golescu, an architect. The new organization is the first affiliated group in the Balkans.

A new club also has been formed in Seoul, Korea, the first in the Orient.

Miss Carpenter to Speak For Child Health Unit

Miss Evelyn M. Carpenter, of the council for the blind, State Department of Welfare, will address the Child Health Association at luncheon in Kaufmann's on Tuesday. Miss Dorothy Horsford, who is in charge of preventive work locally, will also be present to hear Miss Carpenter discuss "Saving Our Children's Eyes."

Election of officers and executive committee will take place during the business hour.

Rockledge Garden Club Show Aides Announced

Assisting with the flower exhibits at the Rockledge Garden Club's flower show on Tuesday will be Mrs. Frank L. Doering and Mrs. William B. Chalfant. Additional aides for the luncheon which will precede the show and will take place in Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay's home, Briar Cliff road, are Mrs. Frank Snyder and Mrs. B. M. Herr.

The show will be held in Waverly Presbyterian Church and will include nurserymen and florists' exhibits as well as those of the members.

Bryn Mawr Farms Club To Hear Reading Program

The program for Wednesday's meeting of the Bryn Mawr Farms Woman's Club will consist of readings by Miss Louise Diltz. The meeting will take place in the Woodside Road School.

STOCK PRICES PUSH AHEAD CAUTIOUSLY

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP.)—Stocks moved forward cautiously in the early trading today.

Advances were largely fractional, although a handful of issues, particularly utilities, eat up more than a point. Rails were narrowly mixed with industrials steady to slightly higher.

Consolidated Gas rose more than 2 points and issues up around a point or so included American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Gotham Silk, North American and Columbia Gas. Fractional gains were shown in Western Union, United Aircraft, United States Steel, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe and Montgomery Ward. Harvester, American Can, New York Central and Nickel were steady, while Case and Union Pacific dipped slightly.

News that the Senate had passed the National Industry Recovery bill embodying radical proposals on taxes and tax returns dominated discussion in the financial district. The proposal to end the tax exemption now accorded the income from federal, state and municipal bonds was a surprise to Wall street.

The approaching close of the Congressional session was viewed with a certain degree of relief. Many here feel that business needs a respite to catch up with the significance of the laws recently passed.

Wide interest was accorded the government wheat forecast, which was below that of private estimates. A winter wheat crop of 64 per cent of normal was forecast by the Department of Agriculture on the basis of June 1, the smallest prospective crop since 1904.

Foreign exchanges showed minor changes in early trading. Sterling opened at $4.12½, an overnight gain of three-quarters of a cent, while French francs stood at 4.79½ cents, unchanged.

WHEAT JUMPS TO NEW HIGHS

CHICAGO, June 10.—(AP.)—Wheat jumped quickly today to new high price records for the season.

An indicated loss of 36,500,000 bushels in winter wheat during the last 30 days was the all important influence. Trade attention also focused on the fact that domestic spring wheat condition was below a 10-year average.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP.)—Bank clearings continue slightly below those of last year. The total this week, at all leading cities in the United States, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., of $5,113,200,000 was 4.1 per cent below that of a year ago. At New York City, clearings were $3,753,746,000, a loss of 2.8 per cent, while the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $1,359,454,000 was 8.5 per cent smaller.

The decline at home of the larger cities is now quite uniformly reduced in the comparison with last year. In the main, it is very much less than it has been for some time past. This is notably the case at Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit and San Francisco. There was an increase this week at St. Louis, Minneapolis and Louisville. Furthermore, clearings this week exceeded those for the five days in the preceding week by $1,559,013,000, whereas in the same comparison last year, the increase was somewhat smaller, amounting to $1,312,622,000.

Clearings at leading centers showing increases and decreases as compared with those of last year, are printed herewith; also, daily bank clearings for the year to date:

WRITER GIVES ANALYSIS OF SOCIALISM

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, June 10.—At a time (1933) when one hears so much of "social revolution" and the "failure of capitalism," it is surprising how few people understand exactly what Socialism is.

The first impression one gets is that Socialism consists of a criticism of economic evils and an attack upon the existing social institutions which characterize "capitalism," such as private property. All Socialists agree in these respects.

But most people who are not Socialists also agree that many evils exist, and they also demand reforms. Furthermore, hardly any two Socialists agree upon exactly what should be done. Socialists have no monopoly of social reform; and they differ so widely among themselves as to make one doubt their grasp of fundamentals.

SOCIETY STRESSED

As I see it, the positive earmarks of real "socialism" are as follows:

1—It emphasizes society as a whole, and places society above and ahead of the individual as existing for society, not society existing for the individual. Instead of talking about the greatest good of the greatest number, he talks of "the collective good." The extreme Socialist sees the forest, but not the trees; while the extreme individual sees the trees, but not the forest.

Accordingly, socialism does not accept any presumption that individual initiative is a good thing in itself.

WOULD END DISPUTE

It believes in and emphasizes the similarities among individuals, insofar as economic life is concerned. It ignores fundamental differences among men.

The Socialists are forced to do this in order to deal with society as a whole. If all men were exactly alike in wants, needs, capacities and costs, we could treat them as a unit. Collectivism would be easy. There would be no problem of weak versus strong, or the lazy versus the industrious.

Probably as fundamentally characteristic as any, is the socialistic doctrine, "From each according to capacity; to each according to service." (Or some of them lean toward the formula, "From each according to labor time; to each according to wants.")

WEAKNESSES SEEN

But all this has two great weaknesses; first, hardly any two persons have the same wants, or are able to render the same service with a given amount of effort.

Who, then, is to judge the wants and efforts of different persons, and on what basis?

2—There is no way provided for balancing the capacities or efforts of a man, either against his own wants or against the values which anyone else may attach to the resulting product. Who, then, is to decide what the services performed by any individual are worth, and on what basis are values to be fixed?

These are the reasons why Socialists seek to organize producers into "industrial armies," and to exercise so much control over consumption. In practice, effective socialism develops into autocracy.

INSTITUTIONS STRESSED

3—Socialists attach relatively great importance to "social institutions" which they consider as man-made and subject to control. These, they say, must be abolished in a way that is essentially revolutionary.

They see in "exploitation of labor" the great evil, and regard it as being based on such "institutions" as private property in land and capital, individual enterprise, the use of money, and the "price system." These they would abolish and would substitute a connective direction of production and determination of prices through some form of government control.

DEFINITION GIVEN

We may, therefore, define socialism as that theory of economic life which is based upon a concept of the welfare of society as a whole, and which would make social welfare the conscious and direct aim of industry, seeking its end through the abolition of private property in the instruments of production, and substituting therefor collective ownership, together with collective management and distribution of products.

Or we may say that socialism is the doctrine of economic welfare which holds that the cause-moapnanomic ills lies in an alleged exploitation of labor, based chiefly on private property and working through business competition and which, therefore, advocates the common ownership and management of land and capital and a collective fixation of values.

Socialists may and do differ as to whether their theories should be carried out by a national government or by local groups. Some favor a revolutionary seizure of government; others a gradual process of educational propaganda. But the essence of socialism itself is as outlined above.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should Sweethearts Plan For the Future?

Moonlight—romance—rosy dreams of a lovers' paradise.

Should they be interrupted to talk about "practical affairs?"

Should Juliet turn her radiant eyes from the stars and discuss Romeo's financial rating, instead?

Should Romeo cease sighing deathless vows and investigate, instead, his Beautiful Beloved's status as a cook and seamstress? And how much does she really spend for beautifying?

To Lucille, the whole ideas' disgusting. She has been reading an article by Mary Borden in a magazine, and she hastens to tell the universe that if her Young Man should go in for prenuptial practical conversations, she'd ditch him, pronto!

"Time enough for that in the dreary days after marriage, cries Lucille, "when the honeymoon is over and one comes down to earth with a bump."

But would marriage be so dreary—would that bump-to-earth be so sickening—if we used a little co-operative common sense before we marched to the altar?

Mary Borden is sure it wouldn't.

She thinks that wrangles over money are at the bottom of most, if not all, smashed marriages. Not because of greed, or meanness, of extravagance—but because of no plan.

She thinks it is idiotic, if not criminal, to let our youngsters go gayly and eagerly into the responsibilities of marriage, and come up against life's hard problems without knowing how they are going to meet them—just because we're too sentimental to face a few practical facts.

"To talk sense in the time of courtship would, we think, spoil everything," she accuses. "We can't bear to interrupt the babbling of Love's Young Dream by talking of money, so we keep quiet, and send the brave children off with our blessing and a couple of checks, and wipe our senile eyes at the charming spectacle of their ignorant confidence."

START WITHOUT PLANS

We're outraged at the idea of checking up on things—setting them down in black and white.

"Why, they love each other. They'll share everything," we coo. And so—what happens?

The kids start out with no plan whatever, and with the notion that "love'll take care of all that." Then, inevitably, the trouble starts.

It isn't long before Romeo begins to feel that if Juliet really loved him, she wouldn't be everlastingly wanting to throw his money around. And Juliet feels that if Romeo just loved her, he wouldn't be so scowlingly stingy, whenever she needs a few dollars.

Or perhaps Romeo has the notion that he owns the money, and Juliet mustn't be allowed to handle it, for fear she'll waste it.

THE FRENCH PLAN

Or maybe he's ready to let Juliet work while he loafs.

So, whether they have much or little to "share," they're wrangling over rights. After which, it isn't long before there's another divorce under way, and two more young lives smashed—and all America a little deeper in the mire.

Then why not be like the French? concludes Miss Borden. Why not settle things, in writing, before the wedding bells ring? Why not act like the young lovers were two partners going into business together—which they actually are—and not leave the question of "sharing" to chance?

What do you think of the idea?

Would a formal marriage settlement fetter young love—make it mercenary?

Or would it leave it free of sordidness and wrangling?

What would you decide for your son, or your daughter?

"RAINY HOLIDAY!" -o- -o- Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"If all the year were playing holidays,
To sport would be as tedious as to work;
But when they seldom come, they WISHED-FOR come—" Shakespeare.

You and I, being adult and therefore philosophical, do not mind very keenly when it rains on a holiday. We put bright plans for the day away, shut the drawer and forget about it. Perhaps for the sake of some little child we scowl at the sky's tears running down the window pane. But for ourselves—I have a first edition, illustrated, in dark blue and gold leather, of Dickens, to lose myself in. A man I know somewhat as Eve knew Adam, he has his music. A Mother I know has a week's back numbers of newspapers, the parts that hold the book reviews and articles by knowing men. A little boy I love loses himself in building a model airplane as though in a purple dream. So there WE are! It can rain if it likes, from the gray sky in silver beads, until Heaven wearies. We are snug.

But ahhhh! Two girls do mind, and thousands more. A little one and a big one, here and there. They all have new, chipper hats to wear, and new cotton frocks. The big one has a beau to take her. The little one was going to wave a flag.

Sometimes one can feel worse for the other fellow than one does for one's self.

NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Serving Cocktails

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—When eating a tomato juice cocktail at table, should one drink it or use a spoon?

2—Should they be served in cocktail glasses or in sherbets?

3—Would it be permissible to use sherbets if one does not own cocktail glasses, or would small water glasses be better? T.

1—It is convenient to use a spoon for the first few mouthfuls of the tomato juice cocktail . . . then we can tell if we find the seasoning to our liking or if, for instance, we would like to add a bit more salt. Then we drink the rest of the cocktail. Or, if you prefer, you can drink it all, not bothering to use the spoon for the first sips.

Oyster cocktails, clam cocktails, lobster cocktails, crabmeat cocktails are eaten with the oyster fork.

2—The best way to serve oyster cocktails and the like is in small glass containers embedded in ice.

3—Sherbets would be better than water glasses . . . low sherbets.

Question of Address

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

While in Europe a friend of mine introduced me to her sister and her sister's husband. We became very good friends and they said that it would be all right for me to address them by their first names, "Mary" and "John."

A few weeks after my return home, I wrote them a letter starting it with "My dear Mary and John." Each of them sent me a separate letter in answer. When answering their letters, should I send them each a separate one, too? And how should I start it, "My dear Mary or John" or "Mr. and Mrs. Black?"

F.

It would still be the best taste, I think, for you to write to these new friends a joint letter, just as you wisely did before. If you write to the husband separately, some question of taste might arise which would embarrass you. Since, too, you have begun using the first names, continue this, for they would wonder why you changed to the formal.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

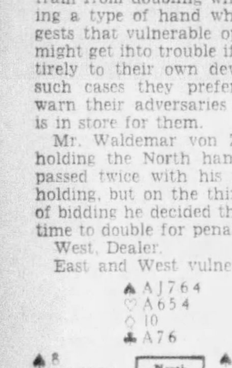
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Passing for a Swing

Most good Contract players accept as one of their most valuable weapons the Double for a Takeout when holding a strong hand after one of the opponents has made an Opening bid. However, good players frequently refrain from doubling when holding a type of hand which suggests that vulnerable opponents might get into trouble if left entirely to their own devices. In such cases they prefer not to warn their adversaries of what is in store for them.

Mr. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, holding the North hand below, passed twice with his powerful holding, but on the third round of bidding he decided that it was time to double for penalties.

West, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	2 ◇
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Double	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding is very interesting. Not only does Mr. von Zedtwitz deserve credit for his two passes, but also for the Double of three clubs, designed to drive his adversaries to three spades, which, as a matter of fact, it actually did. The double spade contract was penalized 1,400 points. North's defense was extremely fine but even if it had been less so, East could not have avoided a penalty of 900 points.

The Opening lead of a heart was won by North with the Ace, and he returned the Ten of diamonds, his partner winning with the Queen. South then cashed the Ace, upon which North discarded the club 6, and followed with the diamond 9, North discarding a heart and East ruffing. The next lead was the King of spades, which North won with the Ace. North now laid down the Ace of clubs, following with another club, which was won in the Dummy. The Declarer then cashed the Knave of hearts and the Queen of spades, and followed with a club, which was ruffed by North, who returned his last heart. The Declarer was forced to trump and concede the last 2 tricks to Mr. von Zedtwitz.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Will you please advise me if a bid made under the following circumstances is or is not a violation of the ethics of a Duplicate Bridge tournament?

My partner and I were playing North and South, and upon our opponents coming to our table we asked them what system they played. They responded "Culbertson in conjunction with the Vanderbilt Club." I was the Dealer and passed. Second and Third Hands passed and Fourth Hand opened with one notrump. Second Hand then bid two of a suit, which was passed all around, and upon Fourth Hand going down, his hand showed less than 2½ honor-tricks.

Answer—The question you raise is an interesting one, but I do not believe that it is actually a violation of the code of ethics. Many players use the Culbertson or other systems of bidding, but modify their system in Duplicate play to meet the artificial conditions of match-point scoring. Of course, if the practice was followed generally, then it might be well to consider the matter with the committee in charge.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Fights Against Nick's Caresses

So swift and sudden was Nick's pounce upon me that I had no opportunity to draw from my gown the little silver pistol upon which I had desperately counted if I failed in all other ruses to repel him.

I must not scream! That I kept telling myself frantically, although in the effort to keep shrieks from tearing from my throat, I knew that I had bitten my lips cruelly. But with all the strength that was in me, I twisted in Nick's grasp, trying to tear my hands away, trying to keep his arms from going around me.

It was not for another second that I realized he was not pulling me close to him, but after him, that, still keeping my hands in a grip so tight that it was torture, he was walking rapidly along the fence at so fast a gait that I had to run in order to keep my feet. Otherwise I knew he would have dragged me along the ground as he had Charles Owen's inert body.

Where was he taking me? What did he mean to do with me? Over and over the frantic queries beat upon my brain, and then the answer came. He stopped suddenly close to the fence, pulled me against a fence post, and deftly slipped from his pocket a looped thong which he put around my wrists, knotting them less tightly than his grasp of them, but most effectually. Then he wound the rest of the thong around the fence post, looping it around one of the wires of the fence in such fashion as to make it an impossibility for me to get away.

STRIKES MADGE

I felt like a shackled slave as he finished, but when he bent his head toward me, there was nothing of serfdom in the swift determination with which I brought my head back against his with a resounding thump that I knew meant a black and blue bruise for me, and which I viciously hoped would give him a similar hurt.

I was like a cornered animal now, fighting blindly yet warily, using every device in my power to avert the awful fate that I feared was to be mine.

Nick's reaction to the unexpected blow was an astonished anathema no less savage because it was muttered. Then he clapped one hand tightly over my mouth—I guessed to suppress any possible scream of mine, and, lifting his other hand slapped me on both cheeks, stinging blows that had a certain brutal expertness about them, betraying long practice.

"There," he said, with a ferocity that had a queer infusion of joviality, "that'll teach you not to monkey with me again. If I hadn't been afraid it would spoil the taste of the kisses, I'd have broken your jaw. But I don't believe those love taps will leave a mark. I'm quite an expert in the slapping line, and I don't want you marred up for the party I'm slinging later. But"—menacingly—"don't get it into your head that I'm soft. If you try any more stunts like the one you pulled just now, I'll bash your face so far into your dome that you won't get it out for a week. Now how about it?

HUMILIATED

"Will you scream when I take my hand away from your mouth, or are you going to be reasonable? I haven't any time to waste with you. I've got to get over there, and see what Tony's been up to. So if you're going to be quiet, nod your head. If you don't, I'm going to fix you so for the next few minutes you won't know what's happening. I've got a sweet little uppercut that'll put you to sleep plenty. How about it? Will you nod your head?"

Despite the pain and humiliation of the blows—I never had been slapped in my life before, my mother's corrections when I was a small child being switchings around my sturdy little legs, never a blow anywhere upon my body—my heart was singing with joyous relief. I had a respite! For a few minutes he was going to be too busy with Tony and the others to bother about me. I would be left alone—free of his hateful presence, free from the fear of his arms around me, his lips against mine. I would be free to try to rid myself of the thong he had put around my wrists, free to try to get hold of my silencer pistol. And who knew? He might stay away long enough for Dicky and Hugh to return!

"Are you going to nod your head?" Nick repeated menacingly.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Abdominal Pains Should Not Be Treated Lightly

It is often difficult to discover the cause of illness in an adult. It is doubly hard to do so in a child too young accurately to describe his discomfort or to locate the seat of his ailment.

Dr. Copeland

For example, a child who suffers from a stomachache may be the victim of one of many serious disorders. Too often parents disregard the seriousness of this complaint. They think it is no more than an "upset stomach." This negligence would not be so bad if the parents did not make the further mistake of giving castor oil, or some other strong purge, in an effort to cure the stomachache. Let me warn you against the use of castor oil or any other laxative when vague abdominal pain is present.

Why do I object to the use of a laxative when the child complains of a pain in his "tummy?" Because the pain may be due to an inflamed or infected appendix.

Pain is nature's warning. The inflammation may subside if the infected tissues are kept quiet and not irritated. But if a dose of castor oil is given, the intestines are stimulated into activity and the appendix may rupture.

In a recent survey of cases of ruptured appendix it was found that in most instances the rupture could be traced to the use of castor oil. Everyone knows that a ruptured appendix is more difficult to deal with than a simple inflamed appendix. Even though surgery is resorted to, the victim of a ruptured appendix runs a stormy and possibly a fatal course.

The pain is not always due to appendicitis. It may come from an intestinal obstruction. This occurs when parts of the intestines become twisted upon each other. Due to this twist, the supply of blood is cut off, the cells of the intestine die, and gangrene results. When this occurs, time is precious and the life of the small victim can only be saved by early recognition of the disorder and immediate operation.

I do not wish to upset you. My desire is to be helpful. I am sure you will not forget it is unsafe to give castor oil for such symptoms or to trust to home medication.

Of course, abdominal pain may not be of a serious nature. In the majority of cases it is not. It may be no more than old-fashioned colic.

Colic can usually be traced to the eating of indigestible food. In these cases, diarrhea is likely to be present and the physician will have no though of demanding operation.

But, do not forget that even though you know your child has been eating green apples or other foods difficult to digest, the pain may be due to appendicitis and not to simple colic. It is usually the taking of this type of food that precipitates an attack of appendicitis.

Please bear in mind that stomachache or abdominal pain is not always due to trouble in the digestive organs. The symptoms may arise from remote causes, such as decayed teeth, sore throat, diseased spine, or a focus of infection somewhere else. Each case demands different treatment. This treatment can only be determined by a physician. Do not rely upon your own judgment in correcting these disturbances, for delay may be dangerous.

Answers to Health Queries

Sincerely. Q.—What causes continual belching?

A.—May be due to improper diet and poor elimination.

Mrs. L. V. M. Q.—What should a woman aged 28, 5 feet 2 inches tall weigh? 2. What causes small red itching pimples on back and shoulders? 3. What are the symptoms of tuberculosis? 4. What should a boy aged 5, 3 feet 6½ inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 124 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance. 2. This may be due to eczema. 3. General run down condition, loss of weight, hectic color in the cheeks and afternoon temperature. 4. He should weigh about 41 pounds.

'Bossing' Visiting Child

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

I think that all of us who have ever had little fellows in our homes, have been annoyed and bewildered as to what to do about the visiting child who smashes our child's toys, snatches things, pushes and has no concern over our child's possessions. How much can we expect or demand of the young guest? How far can we go in discipline without bringing an irate mother down on our necks for "bossing" her child?

We haven't the rights that are ours over our own child, of course, but I do believe we can, in all fairness, require the visiting child to observe the rules of our house, to observe the same care of our child's playthings that we ask of him.

We can't blame our small daughters for rushing to us in tears because the visitor insists upon playing with the most beloved doll if the visitor has shown that she is careless with the precious toy. We can't scold the small son who belligerently refuses to let the boy from next door use his electric train when experience has taught son that his guest wrecks every toy he touches. Nor can we always send the offender home—not if we want our child to have any companions, which is most certainly necessary for his physical, mental and social growth.

However, we can kindly say to the little guest: "We are very careful of toys in this house. We are glad to have you come over to play, but if you want to stay you will have to be careful of the playthings, too."

And, too, we can tactfully but firmly say, "If you continue to smash Sonny's train I shall have to put it away whenever you come to see him."

Make your statements impersonal, don't let any emotion you may have toward the visiting child be betrayed in your tone. State a fact, a rule, and see that he lives up to it. If you demand it of your child, the guest will fall in line. Children resent being singled out for rules, but will comply happily and easily when each child is expected to obey.

Household Hints

Cheese keeps better if wrapped in cheese cloth that has been dipped in vinegar and wrung out.

If grease is spilled on the kitchen table sprinkle the stain at once with salt; it prevents the grease staining the wood.

Black satin shoes can be freshened by sponging with vinegar.

When cutting up jelly, considerable time is saved if scissors dipped in hot water are used instead of a knife.

DECORATIVE PILLOW

PATTERN NO. 459 By Laura Wheeler

With spring housecleaning well over, the observing housewife notices that her home could be improved with an accessory here and there. Pillows are one of the things that no house can have too many of, particularly in summer when the porch and easy chair invite one to relax. This pillow with its old-fashioned girl is attractive for a variety of places in the home. If done on a pastel material, and embroidered in delicate colors, it would make a charming bedroom pillow. Done on black sateen or some dark color, it would make a practical porch cushion. The pattern consists of a design 15x20 inches, directions for making a pillow and a color chart showing a variety of color schemes. The design is to be carried out in lazy-daisy, outline and cross-stitch.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

VICTORY MAY PUT PIRATES ON FEET

EARLY IN THE season, when the Pirates knocked off the Reds in every one of their first six meetings, a victory for Pittsburgh over Cincinnati looked like nothing more than a bit of practice. But when Steve Swetonic yesterday shut out that same Rhineland crew it looked as big as a world series triumph, the importance of the success arising from the fact that local fans were pleased to consider it as possibly signaling the end of the home club's long and disastrous slump.

Steve Swetonic

A win over even the crippled Reds assumes huge proportions after a team has lost eight out of nine and 13 out of 19 games, and when the masterful Swetonic, evidently concluding that the only way to make a game safe was to keep the enemy from scoring, was turning in only the fourth instance in 20 straight contests in which a Pittsburgh pitcher lasted the distance. The victory itself didn't mean so much as the effect it may have in reviving Pirate spirits, restoring confidence and making the players feel that the slump is over.

MEMORIES CAME SURGING back to veteran fans when the Old Timers took the field for the abbreviated game that was one of the most impressive features of the Wagner Day program with which Pittsburgh paid tribute to history's greatest ball player. It was like looking back over the road to yesterday to see Wagner, Clarke, Ritchey, Phillippe, Young, Killen, Abbaticchio, Maddox, Cooper, McCreery, Gibson, Smith, Hickman, Jordan, Alperman, Pastorius, and the rest of the heroes of yesteryear in action again.

Only a semblance of action, it is true, but enough to cause a choking of throats for a day that is gone, and to make you dream of what could be accomplished today by a team picked from those old boys at their best. Incidentally, there have been few veteran baseball gatherings that included so many as five no-hit pitchers. But that was the number presented yesterday, in Cy Young, Nig Smith, Deacon Phillippe, Nick Maddox and Ed Morris.

THOUGH IT WAS a complete surprise to baseball followers to see Roger Peckinpaugh's managerial job in Cleveland go to a dark horse instead of to Tris Speaker, Larry Gilbert, Bib Falk or one of the numerous others reported in line for it, there is no doubt that the appointment of Walter Johnson is extremely popular.

Johnson's failure to get better results in Washington was due largely to circumstances. Baseball owed him something as one of the finest characters and greatest figures the game ever knew, and fandom is glad to see him get it.

AMONG THE BIG league managers striving desperately to make a deal before the deadline is reached next Thursday at midnight is Bill McKechnie. The Braves lead the National League in fielding and are getting fine pitching, but they're a bad last in batting, and Manager Bill is on a hunt for batting power, particularly an infielder with a punch. Just where he can hope to get what he wants is a question, as men of that kind are not on the market, but if McKechnie doesn't succeed in the majors before Thursday night Johnny Evers will go out with a bankroll to make a purchase in the minors. The Boston situation is made worse by a long hospital list, with Red Worthington a victim of nervous trouble, Al Spohrer nursing a sprained ankle, and Bob Brown and Ed Fallenstin out with sore arms.

Sam Leslie

WORKING EVEN HARDER than McKechnie to get a punch on his club is another former Pirate, Max Carey. The Brooklyn pilot has sounded every other club in the National League on a trade, but failed in each instance. His offers did not appeal to rival managers, who assert that in most instances he tendered nothing but junk.

Carey's latest conference was with Bill Terry, but it didn't last long. Max offered to trade Lefty O'Doul and Glenn Wright for Sam Leslie, and Terry laughed. Then Terry proposed an even-up swap of Leslie for Tony Cuccinello, and it was Carey's turn to register amusement.

CAREY WAS WILLING even to eat crow and take Babe Herman back, though not long ago he declared that no club with Herman in its lineup would ever win a pennant. Max wanted to trade Hack Wilson to the Cubs for Babe, but the Chicago bosses refused to listen. The best Max could do was to swap Del Bissonette and cash to Baltimore for Outfielder Ralph Boyle, once with the Braves and Senators.

It is reported that a Leslie-for-Herman trade also has been suggested, but the Giants did not take kindly to it, intimating that they would expect to get a pitcher in addition to Babe on the ground that the Cubs need Leslie far more than New York needs Herman.

JESSE OWENS, the Cleveland High School boy, who recently set a new scholastic broad jump record of 24 feet 11½ inches, has had a brilliant athletic career in other respects. He won 70 events and was defeated only three times, the three setbacks having been suffered while he was a sophomore. Owens has broken scholastic records in the 50-yard dash and 220-yard dash, besides the broad jump. He is said to have done the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds, equaling the record, matched the best mark in the hurdles and reached 6 feet 2 inches in the high jump. The youngster doesn't make any pretense of having lofty ideals. He frankly admits that his delay in deciding what college he will enter in the fall is due to the fact that he has received eight "offers" and wishes to pick out the best.

GOLFERS WHO HAVE experienced some bitter disappointments in the tricky game, and think their hard-luck tales are prize winners, might shed a sympathetic tear and award the palm to a Washington (D. C.) player who got a tough break on a 140-yard hole.

This golfer's tee shot was a thing of beauty, straight for the pin, and only one inch short on the fly. The ball hit in front of the cup, smacked the flag and bounded into a ditch. It took nine strokes for the hole, where he just missed an ace by an inch. That's tragedy.

THOUGH MANAGER JACK CURLEY at first opposed Billy Petrolle's return to the ring and urged him to retire while he was sound and happy, the pilot now speaks very hopefully of Petrolle's prospects, no doubt by way of paving the road for a match with Jimmy McLarnin for the welterweight championship.

Billy Petrolle

Billy admits that a title fight with the conqueror of Young Corbett III is his goal, and he expects to get it for a date in the first part of September, though planning to engage in a couple of tune-up bouts in the meantime, the first of them probably late this month or early in July.

IT IS EXPECTED that New York promoters will go for a McLarnin-Petrolle match gladly. Both fighters always have been big cards in the Metropolis, and it is figured that with a title at stake they would pull a particularly heavy gate. While McLarnin was the winner in their last two meetings in 1931, Billy holds one decision over Jimmy, scored in 1930. Lou Brouillard also gained a verdict over McLarnin, in 1932, but it is figured that if Petrolle can prove he has not shot his bolt the Fargo Express will be a more popular challenger than Brouillard for the crown. An earlier match between Petrolle and Brouillard for the right to go against McLarnin may be in order.

UNDER THE HEADING of unusual gifts to sports celebrities, it might be mentioned that the Cork Athletic Club, of San Francisco, has presented to Slip Madigan, football coach at St. Mary's, a chip of the Blarney Stone in recognition of his talents as an orator.

Madigan had just given one of his famous talks to the club. Slip, who played guard under Knute Rockne at Notre Dame in his days as an active gridder and who has since become one of the country's outstanding coaches, has a reputation as a speaker that rivals his renown in football.

"Golf widows" gathered at Glenview, Ill., for the national open tournament, which is being completed today. All are wives of famous professionals competing in the event. None of the ladies need worry particularly over the prospect of having a national open champion around the house, as their lords and masters so far have failed to cut very wide swaths in the tourney. Mrs. Guldahl's hubby had a 147 and Mrs. Perkins' spouse a 148 for 18 holes. Husbands of the other ladies are about out of the running. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

GOODMAN PADS LEAD IN OPEN TOURNEY

NORTH SHORE GOLF CLUB, GLENVIEW, Ill., June 10.—(AP.)—The final 36 holes of the United States Open golf championship, barring a playoff, began this morning in a steaming haze with a half-dozen crack professionals in pursuit of a 23-year-old amateur 'giant killer"—Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, hero of the tournament with a record-smashing 66 and leader of the first 36 holes with 141.

A heavy rainfall hit the course at 4 a. m. The fairways were considerably slowed, as a consequence.

Goodman appeared a half-hour ahead of his nearest rival, Tommy Armour, who had 143, in the day's playing schedule for two full rounds.

KIRKWOOD FALTERS

Joe Kirkwood, of Coral Gables, Fla., with 144, was first of the favorites to tee off, shortly after 10 a. m. (E. D. T.). He was paired with Craig Wood, 147.

Gus Moreland, the Dallas amateur and Western champion, with a two-day total of 152, began his third round with birdies on the first two holes, then three-puted the short third.

Kirkwood got off to a bad start, losing two strokes to par through the third. After a 4 on the first hole, Joe was in the rough on the second, approached too strong and then took three putts for a6. He

Believe It Or Not

By Ripley

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A 7,000-MILE FIRE ALARM—On May 28, 1929, an oil well caught fire at Moroeni, Rumania, and all the resources of the Rumanian Government and of the American concessionairies proved insufficient to extinguish it. By the spring of 1931, the fire had burned out a crater 250 feet wide and 65 feet deep and had taken a toll of 14 human lives and $750,000 in good American money. Two hundred people were wounded in the attempt to combat it. Then Myron M. Kinley, of Tulsa, Okla., the fireman of the 7,000-mile run, was called into action. Hurrying to the scene of the great conflagration, he required more than five months of skillful labor to extinguish the volcano of oil. He caused hundreds of pounds of explosives to be dragged to the edge of the crater, and, lowered in fireproof wrappings, to blast dirt into the flaming hole. Water was played on it constantly, and the mud and cement boiled and bubbled like lava. The fire was chocked off when the crater finally was filled with the cement mixture and cooled by tons of water, and Kinley returned to America from his record 7,000-mile alarm.

TOMORROW: THE BIGGEST MAN-HOLE.

The Pirate family circle reflected a better feeling today. Their worst losing streak of the year snapped, the Buccos were hoping for something in the elements that would break the heat wave and thus send their morale up a few more notches. In any event, a promising note sounded in the Bucs' locker rooms as they looked forward to their third and final clash with the lively Reds of Cincinnati.

Perhaps it was the presence of those great pioneer Pirates, Honus Wagner, Fred Clarke, Claude Ritchey, Deacon Phillippe, Wilbur Cooper—that inspired the courageous stands of the Buccos in the oppresive heat of yesterday. Yes, it is very likely that the special occasion had a lot to do with the winning play of the home boys. Surely "Honus Wagner Day," a community holiday, would be rounded out fittingly with a Pirate triumph and with this thought in mind the Oaklanders went to work on the fighting Reds of the Bush-Ens combine.

The happy result was a 2 to 0 verdict which may have a far-reaching effect on the accomplishments of the Gibson hosts as they endeavor to make up some lost ground in what shapes up like another great flag race.

BUCS IN SERIOUS MOOD

Yesterday truly was a day of sentiment radiating around one of the grandest characters in the history of sport. Honus remains a gripping figure in the fans' hearts, but "from here on in," as

GOODMAN EARNED HIS 'BREAKS'—JONES

COURSE SUITED TO JOHNNY, BOB SAYS

By BOBBY JONES
Only Golfer to Win American and British Amateur and Open Championships the Same Year

GLENVIEW, Ill., June 10.—If anyone had been rash enough to predict that Tommy Armour would be ousted from the lead before last night, he would have been regarded as a mild sort of lunatic. To have suggested that anyone would gain nine strokes on the Scot in one round he would have been put off the grounds. Yet that is what Johnny Goodman did in one of the most sensational uprisings in the history of the open championship.

No one need have any doubt about Goodman being a fine golfer. For the past four or five years he has been about the most reliable performer, year in and year out, that the amateur ranks have been able to exhibit. It was no surprise yesterday when he started to burn up the course.

GOODMAN GOOD

Goodman's game can do as much damage to this particular course as any man I know. As I have said before, the requirements here are mainly for straight driving, not necessarily long, and accurate work around the greens. To meet these requirements, Goodman is about as well qualified as any one I can think of.

It should be understood that any one has to have "the breaks" to win one of these tournaments. More especially, one has to have "the breaks" to go around a course like this in 66. So it is no detraction from Goodman's performance to say that he had the breaks yesterday.

It is true also that the man who is playing well, to a certain extent, makes his own breaks.

Johnny had something on the rest of the field yesterday in every department. He needed only 25 putts, largely because his approaches were so close, and he was only in the rough twice. And on one of these occasions, on the eighteenth, he was so little in that the winter rules contingent would have had a chance to argue for the right to tee up.

JONES GETS THRILL

The big thrill of his round came on the fifteenth when his ball bounced plump into the hole for an eagle three. I was standing on the left side of the green, when his approach from 40 yards came up. It was beautifully struck but it was bold, and appeared to be destined to stop 10 or 12 feet past the cup. It hit the green, bounded once, then again, then again, and wedged itself firmly between the flag and the edge of the hole. When the stick was shoved away, the ball dropped in.

The field is spread more today than at any time in a long while in the open championship. Goodman at 141, Armour at 143, and Kirkwood at 144, appear a little lonesome on the official score sheet. But Olin Dutra, Craig Wood, Ralph Guldahl and several others are still dangerous.

BAER, DEMPSEY TO SHOW HERE

By HARRY KECK
Sporting Editor.

Pittsburgh is to be an early stop-off for Max Baer, the reigning heavyweight sensation, and Jack Dempsey, as they tour the nation on an exhibition tour.

Jules Beck, matchmaker at the North Braddock Bowl, late last night closed with Dempsey for the appearance of himself and Baer next Thursday evening. Baer will box three regulation rounds against his own sparring partners and Dempsey will referee. Jack also will referee the main bout of the card, which has not yet been arranged. It will be a repetition of the Dempsey-Schmeling act staged recently at Motor Square Garden.

Beck has petitioned the boxing commission for the Thursday night date, now that the Arena has passed it up.

WORK ON YAROSZ BOUT

Already the ball has been started rolling for a Ted Yarosz-Vince Dundee bout, following on the heels of Dundee's impressive knockout victory over Frankie Goosby at the Arena, Thursday night.

Max Waxman, manager of Dundee, before returning to Newark, N. J., last night, authorized Matchmaker Lew Raymond to represent him in any negotiations for the bout, and the latter will try to arrange it for Forbes Field over the 15-round route and ask the State Athletic Commission to recognize the match as being for the world middleweight championship, a title now vacant, but generally accorded to Dundee.

RAYMOND VS. HERRERA

Before departing with Waxman, Heine Blaustein, trainer of Dundee, closed with the Hickey Park Club to have Lew Raymond, his lightweight, of Baltimore, take the place of Lew Massey in the latter's postponed match with Tony Herrera one week from next Monday night. Raymond is a nephew of Joe and Vince Dundee and resembles his uncles. He has beaten Ralph Lenny and Pat Igo, who knocked out Wesley Ramey; drawn with Tony Falco and knocked out Johnny Hayes.

Blaustein also is dickering to bring in Jack Portney, Baltimore southpaw, who has beaten Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, Steve Halaiko, Eddie Cool and Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

MILLVALE CARD FILLED

The card has been completed for next Monday's show at Hickey Park with the signing of Harry Jacobi, of Newark, N. J., who knocked out Bill Nichy at the Arena Thursday night, to box Jack Snyder, of Lawrenceville, in the second bout. Tommy Freeman boxes the Alabama Kid in the main bout of 10 rounds. Patsy Severo meets Harry Weekly and Tiger Roy Smith engages Anson Green in two eight-rounders, and Dick Ambrose makes his professional debut against Pete Fleming in the six-round opener.

The St. Peter's A. A., of the North Side, opens its outdoor amateur boxing season in its own arena next Tuesday night. Proceeds go to the needy.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The victory of Max Baer over Max Schmeling in their bout in New York the other night is a good thing for the boxing game in that it brings to the front a vibrant new figure in the heavyweight scheme of things . . . If Primo Carnera should happen to beat Jack Sharkey in their meeting at the end of the month and win the world title, we shall have an entirely new setup for the heavyweight battling next summer . . . The public is tired of seeing the same old faces, and any change makes for added interest and zest.

WIN BOOSTS BUC MORALE

a droll Dixie athlete remarked, it's a case of letting the chips fall where they may, for the Buccos are determined to hew close to the line regardless of personalites or friendships.

The rank and file of the Pittsburgh club wish it broadcast that the Buccos are still very much in the flag fight. Maybe the Cardinals, the Cubs or the Giants will prove their superiority before the curtain falls but the Buccos refuse to consider any of the three entries invincible.

SWETONIC BLANKS REDS

Bill Swift and Leon Chagnon are both ready to face the Reds this afternoon. Swift pitched only a round or two in Chicago and should be on edge for the slab task. Acting Manager Ens, his suspension lifted today, will call upon Ray Kolp to heckle the Buccos. The Pirates are scheduled for a doubleheader in St. Louis tomorrow.

Steve Swetonic once more rose to great pitching heights as he blanked the Reds on six hits. The torrid, sticky day did not appear to bother the effectiveness of the clever righthander as he reeled off nine runless rounds.

Paul Derringer was just about as good as Steve, but Paul was nicked for a triple by Arky Vaughan in the third that scored P. Waner and Brother Lloyd singled in the seventh to register Tommy Thevenow, our new second-sacker.

ELKS FETE HONUS

The Wagner Day festivities came to a happy ending last night at No. 11 Lodge of Elks. A member of the fraternal organization, Wagner was feted and praised by many speakers. Honus responded to a toast and his ringing speech was loudly applauded. Wagner also thanked the people of the Pittsburgh district for their kindness toward him.

The Rev. Father James R. Cox pronounced the invocation for the banquet guests. Fred Clarke, longtime manager and leftfielder of the Pirates, made a gripping speech which dealt largely with the glories of Honus. Others who responded to toasts were Denton T. (Cy) Young, famous pitcher; Pirate President W. E. Benswanger and John K. Tener. Frank Moran was toastmaster.

Fred Clarke, long-time manager of the Pirates, who came here for the Honus Wagner Day festivities, is paying his first visit to Pittsburgh since 1926, and finds the old town little changed . . . There are some new buildings, but that is about all . . . Clarke, who served for 17 years as pilot of the Buccos, now gets a kick out of hunting, fishing and golf. . . . He finds a letdown in interest in baseball. . . . He thinks the Pirates will catch their stride and still have a fine chance to win the pennant.

An amazing feature of the battle of the Maxes was to be found in the fact that the critics who witnessed the affair were widely separated in their opinions as to which of the men had the better of the going up to the time of Baer's knockout victory. . . . There were some who contended that Schmeling, although far away from his best form, was ahead, while others held Baer had beaten him all of the way.

James (Red) Mason, Pittsburgh's best known fight manager, now residing in Chicago, came on for Honus Wagner Day and speedily made his presence known with his roofing . . . 43 years ago, Red went to work for the old Pittsburgh club as a trainer at Exposition Park, being employed by John K. Tener, then a pitcher, later Governor of Pennsylvania and also president of the National League . . . Mason developed into a sort of business manager and traveled with the team.—HARRY KECK.

Latimer Captures Junior Championship

The junior high school baseball champion for 1933 belongs to Latimer.

Yesterday, in the final game of the playoff series, the Latimer nine defeated Gladstone, the favorite to win the crown, 7 to 6. Harry Stott, hurling for Latimer, fanned 10 batters and limited the Gladstone sluggers to six hits. The score by innings:

PITT TO PLAY U. S. C. HERE

By JESS CARVER

In their first invasion of the East in history, the mighty Trojans of Southern California will storm the Pitt Stadium next year, meeting Pitt's Golden Panthers. The contest tentatively is set for October 13, 1934, and will mark the first time a Trojan eleven ever has appeared further east than South Bend, Ind.

Negotiations for the contest were started while Pitt was on the coast last year for the Rose Bowl game, between Athletic Directors W. Don Harrison, of Pitt, and Willis O. Hunter, of Southern California. The game would have been closed long before this had it not been that the Trojans had to await the annual summer meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference and its attendant schedule meeting.

Hunter wired Director Harrison yesterday that everything was o. k. and the Pitt boss broke out in a rash of announcements.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—When the accountants take an inventory of the 1933 Brooklyn ball club, they'll discover the Brooklyn jinx ain't among the assets this year. They always took the jinx out of the safe deposit vault when the Dodgers played the Giants. And, no matter who was pitching for the Brooklyns, the Giants thought it was Svengali. They were hypnotized like hoptoads near a snake.

Nick Altrock

But this year the Brooklyns have run out of mesmerism and all their occult charms. Because the New Yorkers are treating Maxie Carey's boys like just another ball club, The Dodgers haven't got 'em hexed any more.

Bill Terry must have sprinkled magic love powder on the Brooklyn pitchers instead. Anyway, they've all got a delivery the Giants love to touch this year. And the evil eye the Brooklyns used to flash at the Giants is just a shiner now.

LENORE KIGHT SETS RECORD

Climaxing her final indoor appearance of the season with the shattering of one of her own records and the retaining of her title, Lenore Kight, ace girl swimmer of the Carnegie Library Club, of Homestead, gave warning that she is out to make it a perfect year by capturing all possible outdoor titles hereabouts this summer.

Miss Kight covered the 220-yard distance in the senior Allegheny Mountain Association meet in the Homestead pool last night in 2:23 2-5, to break her own mark of 2:40 2-5.

Three marks fell during the evening, as Johanna Gorman, a teammate of Miss Kight, broke the record in the 100-yard senior backstroke championship race when she covered the distance in 1:16 4-5 and Michael Brodi, of the Duquesne Library Club, established a new standard in the 100-yard free style of 57 seconds. The summary:

300-yard senior free style for men—Won by Joe Orioff, Erie Y; Russel Lindberg, Homestead Library, second; Steve Vermak, Homestead Library, third. Time—6 minutes 13 2-5 seconds.

220-yard free style for women—Won by Lenore Kight, Homestead Library; Louise Clark, Homestead Library, second; Anna Mae Gorman, Homestead Library, third. Time 2 minutes 37 2-5 seconds (new record).

500-yard free style for women—Won by Lois McGuean, Homestead Library; Mary Barnes, Homestead Library, second; Anna West, Homestead Library, third. Time—8 minutes 28 2-5 seconds.

100-yard senior back stroke for women—Won by Johanna Gorman, Homestead Library; Anna Mae Gorman, Homestead Library, second; Catherine Gibbon, Curne A. C., third. Time—1 minute 16 4-5 seconds (new record).

100-yard junior free style for men—Won by Michael Brodi, Duquesne Library; Andrew Manko, Curne A. C., second; Clifford Hilliard, Clairton High School, third. Time—57 second (new record).

360-yard free style relay for Monongahela Valley high schools—Won by Duquesne High, Homestead High second, Munhall High, third. Time 3 minutes 44 1-5 seconds.

Fight Results

At Detroit—Britt Gorman won by a technical knockout over Midget Wolgast, 6 rounds, when Wolgast refused to continue and left ring.

At Charleston, W. Va.—Billy Williams won on a foul from Steve O'Malley, 3 rounds. Curley Kilvain and Cutler Terry drew, 6 rounds.

At Chicago—Andy Di Noel defeated Johnny Phagan, 8 rounds. Frankie Hughes defeated Danny Belmont, 8 rounds.

At San Diego, Cal.—Swede Bergiund defeated Joe Glick, 10 rounds.

At Butte, Mont.—Alton Black and Frankie Monroe drew, 10 rounds.

At San Francisco—Pete Sarron and Speedy Dado drew, 10 rounds.

GOODMAN PADS GOLF LEAD

pulled his tee shot into a sand trap one th 167-yard third and carded a 4.

Blond Craig Wood, the big money winner of the year, shot with precision as he started 4-4-3, one under par. Thus he closed much of the gap separating him from Kirkwood without delay.

GOODMAN BAGS PAR

Goodman used a No. 4 iron for his second shot to the 439-yard first green, dropped 10 feet short, but chipped on nicely, four feet from the pin, and holed out for a par 4.

Walter Hagen, with only the slimmest of outside chances to get back into the running, saved a par on the first hole with a great recovery from a trap. He was home in two on the second for a birdie.

Goodman was one under par after three holes.

Frank Walsh, big professional from the Chicago district, pulled a comeback by going out in 33, three under par, after starting the round 11 shots behind the leader with 152.

MANNING, LOEFFLER IN

Only two of the Pittsburgh entries in the tourney qualified for the final 36 holes of play. Charley Manning, pro at Shannopin, and Emil Loeffler, of Oakmont, both took 156, which just let them in.

Perry DelVecchio, of Greensburg, wound up yesterday with 157; Vincent Eldred, of Highland, took a 158; Pete O'Hara, of Westmoreland, had 159, as did Knox Young, the only amateur from Pittsburgh.

DODGERS SEEK HURST

NEW YORK, June 10.—(INS.)—Brooklyn baseball fans were intrigued today by a report that the Dodgers may buy Don Hurst, slugging first baseman of the Phillies. Burt Shotton and Gerry Nugent, manager and president, respectively, of the Phils, conferred yesterday with Max Carey, Brooklyn manager.

COAST GAMES ON AIR

SPOKANE, Wash., June 10.—(INS.)—Virtual assurance that radio broadcast of Pacific Coast Conference games will extend throughout the 1933 season was indicated today at a special meeting of graduate managers of the conference.

Bell, Eddie Jacobs Gain Net Finals

BALTIMORE, June 10.—(AP.)—Berkeley Bell, of New York, and Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, today dominated the finals of the Maryland state tennis tournament.

The two opposed each other in the singles final and were paired to play the winner of the match between Casper Nannes, of Rutgers, and Billy Jacobs, of Baltimore, and the team of Elliott Loughlin, of the Naval Academy, and Bernard Welsh, of Duke, in the doubles.

Official—Pittsburgh 111

NO. 126.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of five hundred thousand ($500,000.00) dollars and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: Providing food, clothing, fuel and shelter for and otherwise assisting residents of the City of Pittsburgh who are without adequate means of support and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS, The corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh, by Ordinance duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on March 15th, 1932, and duly recorded and published as required by law, signified their desire that the indebtedness of said City be increased in the sum of three million (3,000,000.00) dollars for the purposes described in the following Ordinance, and provided that the question of increasing the indebtedness in said amount for said purpose be submitted to a vote of the electors of said City at a special election held on April 26, 1932, and

WHEREAS, After due legal notice, said election was held and conducted as required by law, and a majority of the electors who voted at said election voted in favor of said increase of indebtedness, and the vote was duly counted by the Court of Quarter Sessions as required by law, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions made a record thereof and a certified copy of such record under seal, showing the result, was furnished as required by law, to the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the same has been placed of record upon the minutes thereof; Now, Therefore

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of five hundred thousand ($500,000.00) dollars to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: Providing food, clothing, fuel and shelter for and otherwise assisting residents of the City of Pittsburgh who are without adequate means of support.

SECTION 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of five hundred thousand ($500,000.00) dollars be issued for the purpose aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in denominations of one hundred ($100.00) dollars or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of June, 1933, and shall be payable in twenty (20) equal annual installments of twenty-five thousand ($25,000.00) dollars each, one of which shall mature on the first day of June in each of the years 1934 to 1953 inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. And for the true and faithful payment of the principal of this bond and the semi-annual interest thereon, as aforesaid, the faith, honor, credit and property of the said City of Pittsburgh are hereby pledged.

Any one or more of the coupon bonds of the series of which this is one may at the option of the holder, be exchanged at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of

ONE HUNDRED ($100.00) DOLLARS or multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering the said coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due at the office of the City Controller of said City.

This bond is one of a series of bonds amounting in the aggregate to five hundred thousand ($500,000.00) dollars issued by the City of Pittsburgh for valid municipal purposes by virtue and in pursuance of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof," approved April 20, 1874, and the several supplements and amendments thereof; and by virtue of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled "An Act for the government of cities of the second class," approved March 7, 1901, and the supplements and amendments thereof; and an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to authorize the registry or transfer of certain bonds," approved May 1, 1873; and by virtue of a special election duly called and held in said City on April 26, 1932, and in pursuance of an Ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh entitled, "An

Recompense

Since this warm current flows from you to me,
And back again—I do not think it wise
To strain against the tide of ecstasy,
Or place the band of prudence on our eyes;
Since I am shaken when I touch your hand,
And troubled by the magic of your mouth,
No Godhead of my fathers can demand
That I forego the wine or praise the drouth.

I know that war and famine stalk the earth—
That winds are chill and friendship but a name.
But you alone can give the game its worth,
And purge the nights of sorrow and of shame.
Small lot I care who wrecks the land and sea!
Since this warm current flows from you to me—

—Don Wahn.

Heheheh

One of those very small-time vaudeville and flicker parties in Los Angeles, which pays off the alleged talent in "buttons," needed a song and dance act at the last moment. The manager phoned Joe Doax, of Dix and Doax, and made the offer.

"Well," well'd the hoofer, who manages to live from day to day without working, anyway, "wh'ass the feature picture you got this week?"

"Strange Interlude," replied the manager.

"The heck with it," was the indifferent retort. "We seen it, already."

As If You Didn't Know

In Hollywood as on Broadway nifties Wm. N. Wenger, the girls like you better if you give them. $omething to remember you by.

Oh, Hard to Get, Huh!

Grace Cooney, the secretary to the big shot of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, must, among other things, entertain people of importance stopping there. Among the many, Adolphe Menjou was one important personage the other day to be greeted with a sweet smile from Grace.

During this brief conversation she told the screen lover how much she enjoyed his movies—and then frankly told him it was part of her job to tell him so!

A few hours later Miss Cooney received a beautiful bouquet and a large photo of Adolphe from Adolphe. She sent him the following note:

"The flowers are beautiful, but what am I to do with the picture?"

Not the Type

Between mouthfuls of herring over at Cantor's mansion in Beverly Hills, Louella Parsons, Marvyn Leroy, George White and this corner were raving about "One Sunday Afternoon," the comedy hit in New York, which will be seen on the screens soon.

"Yes," remarked the misinformed Cantor, "I understand James Cagney has the role of the tough guy. That's fine."

"Not Cagney," corrected Miss Parsons. "The role of tough guy is being played by Gary Cooper."

"Oh, yeah," mumbled Cantor. "Well, he'll need a lotta rehearsing."

Observation

Among other items that some of the Broadway night places can borrow from the Hollywood spots is the novelty of NOT introducing the celebs present. The hokum died here long ago when some of the higher grade movie persons revolted and refused to respond when the master of ceremonies, stuck for a clever quip, decided to call upon them.

The Barnum and Baileying of well-knowns by many of the New York night clubs prolongs the proceedings and irks the patrons who usually come for a dance and have to wait two hours to get one.

In Hollywood Joan Crawford, Gloria Swanson and some others are to be saluted for defying the groups who might say:

"Huh! She's gettin' high-hat, ain't she?"

They were mong the first who stayed away from places that abused the gag of "bows," until the managements promised that they would never again be bothered.

In New York N. T. G. is responsible for it, and we've often wondered what he really thinks about many of the smellebrities he blah-blahs about.

Form of Criticism

And to think, groans George Gillingham, that the only thing of Morgan's that the government has been able to tax—is his memory!

Add Similes

Suggested for Frank J. Wilstach's dictionary of them: Mateele Howe Farnham's: Her reputation was as spotless as the white ground on a Red Cross banner . . . Grover Jones': He had a chest thicker than $9 worth of lettuce . . . Ted Cook's: Full of heavy going as a light summer novel . . . Bugs Baer's: Resemble one another like wet carpet slippers . . . Heywood Broun's: Under as much strain as a lone suspender button at the back of a bowler's pants!

Typical of Them

Andy Sannella forwards the one about the racketeer, who had been asked by a reporter if he had ever been to Europe.

"I dunno," was the reply. "My wife buys all the tickets."

English Derby On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

A crowd of more than 1,000,000 persons, including the British King and Queen, are shown at Epsom Downs for the running of the English Derby, in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. There are scenes of the great assemblage, the betting ring and the arrival of their British majesties, with the crowds cheering frantically. Follows the race, with 24 starters, and Hyperion, owned by Lord Derby, winning. The Globe Trotter graphically describes the scenes.

What is probably the finest picture ever made of the West Point cadets shows them in their final review before graduation.

The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, staunch and reliable as ever, soars over Rome on a good-will visit to the King of Italy. The King is shown going aboard, where he greets the pilots and the crew.

In Chelsea, Mass., two 300-foot radio towers built during the war at the naval station, are pulled down because they were considered a menace to aviation.

Jacqueline Doret, Paris stenographer, selected as the most beautiful blonde in all France in a recent contest, is greeted in New York by a score of beautiful girl dancers headed by Maria Gambarelli, who show her the latest American steps. Mlle. Doret is bound for Hollywood.

(Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.)

Revue to Be Staged Monday Night

Helen Benedict and Bernard Rosenson will be featured in "The Right Bank," musical revue to be staged by the Y Co-operative Playhouse Monday and Wednesday evenings of next week. Others will be Regis Ryan, Lou Rubin, Genevieve Malamude, Larry London, Virginia Bialas and Beatrice del Cimmutto. "The Right Bank" will be the last Co-operative Playhouse production of the season.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 10.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The Baers are going strong. "Bugs" Baer is the champion humorist, and "Max" the champion boxer. This fellow Schmeling however deserves a lot of credit. He has from the start here conducted himself both in and out of the ring in a mighty commendable way, that has brought nothing but credit to his country.

Roosevelt is trying to get rid of Congress by tonight. He has tried everything he knows. He has hinted, handed 'em their hat, and almost insulted 'em. No more unwelcome guest has ever been invented than Congress. "One-Eyed" Connelly is a sweetheart in comparison.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

'Fra Diavolo' On Screen In Penn

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Mr. Seibel

That operetta which was the delight of a former generation, "Fra Diavolo," with its tuneful score by Auber, has been turned into a splendid comedy romance in which those two funniest clowns of Hollywood, Laurel and Hardy, furnish intelligent amusement at the Penn.

Then there is Dennis King, handsome as the bandit chief, to sing Fra Diavolo's song, "On Yonder Rock Reclining," and to exhibit some fine sword-play. Thelma Todd takes the role of the lady whom Diavolo wooes for her jewels and her Lord's cash.

There is one excruciatingly funny scene where Laurel and Hardy try to rob a wood-cutter, after deciding to become bandits, and his tale of 16 children moves them to tears so that they give him what money they have left.

But the whole picture is one of the best, with remarkable photography, and the closest approach to the legitimate they have made—so is Thelma's work.

Two other features are outstanding—"Father Noah's Ark," a silly symphony in technicolor, as delightfully funny as it can be, and a travel picture of Scandinavia, in which Fitzpatrick again shows he is the uncrowned successor of Burton Holmes.

By MARGARET RUSSELL

There's murder and mystery and trains and boats and love at the Davis and Sheridan Square this week in double bills. "The Silk Express," featuring Neil Hamilton, Sheila Terry, Arthur Byron and Guy Kibbee, and "The Cocktail Hour," with Bebe Daniels, Randolph Scott, Sidney Blackmer and Muriel Kirkland.

"The Silk Express" is the story of a train-load of raw silk en route from Seattle to New York. "It must get there on scheduled time" say the mill owners. "It must never arrive" says the band of commercial brigands who have cornered the market.

It nearly doesn't, what with a fault-finding government inspector, a crooked conductor, a fire on the train, a dying man, two murdered ones and many other complications. The long skinny finger of suspicion touches each and everyone, in the fashion of mystery dreamers, and you can't be quite sure who are the villains and who are the honest men, even when the picture ends.

"Cocktail Hour" finds Bebe Daniels as a famous girl artist, surrounded by dozens of admiring swains. On a boat-trip vacation she is moon-struck by Sidney Blackmer, who turns out to be a cad. An ardent young suitor nearly kills the married philanderer, who has tampered with the lady's heart, and the Bebe finds her true love at last, in the person of a long-patient advertising associate.

The double bills in the two theaters are supplemented by Fox Movetone News, showing the take-off of the intrepid Mattern and other interesting features.

Comedy Bill In Warner

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With the aim of making its program all-comedy, the Warner is presenting Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "Diplomaniacs," Walter Catlett in "Daddy Knows Best" and Scrappy in "The Match Kid," the latter a cartoon.

The principal feature is "Diplomaniacs," in which the goofy stars are sent to the Geneva peace conference as representatives of a tribe of American Indians, on whose reservation they had set up a barber shop. They are instructed to work for peace and right away they are marked by the representatives of makers of an explosive cartridge to whom cessation of war would be disaster.

Bith sides win and lose, for the cartridge explodes and sends the plotters to be fitted for crowns and harps, while the boys get back home in time to be drafted for the war that results from the peace conference.

It has its funny spots, plenty of action and the customary material of musical burlesques, in which the stars work their gags, sing and dance and have the assistance of Marjorie White, Phyllis Barry, Louis Calhern and Hugh Herbert.

In "Daddy Knows Best," Walter Catlett finds that regulating the amusements of modern youngsters may be quite a lively experience for a parent, and lead one into strange adventures, including the embarrassing loss of trousers.

New Kennywood Act To Open Sunday

Cimse's motorcycle act does its last riding and clancey aerial gymnastics at Kennywood today. Billy Ritchey's water show which features high divers opens Sunday. Jess Hawkins and the Virginians come back to the Kennywood dance floor Monday for a week's engagement. Dancing now is held afternoons and nights except Sundays. Tomorrow a free concert and vaudeville show will be given by Jayne Jarrell and her Gypsy Troubadours.

Vamp, Vamp, Vamp, the Boys Are Falling

BERT WHEELER, ROBERT WOOLSEY AND PHYLLIS BARRY IN SCREEN BURLESQUE ON DIPOMACY, "DIPLOMANIACS"

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"DEAR MARK," writes J. C. Silver, "you haven't done a subway story in a long time and, if you feel in the mood, I have the very episode for you. I ask nothing from you for the use of it. (Editor's note: Thank you, Mr. Silver. You must come over and see our canary some day).

"Entering the subway at a downtown station during the rush hour the other night, I was actually lucky enough to get a seat in the first train that came along. Do you follow me, Mr. Hellinger? Not only was I fortunate enough to get into the train, but I was able to sit down in comparative comfort!

"I fell into the seat and realized what a great piece of luck this was. For several years, I had been entering the same subway station at the same hour. But never before had I been lucky enough to be able to grab a seat.

"My happiness lasted until the train pulled into the next station—which is just about as long as any happiness lasts these days. The doors opened, and in walked a woman with a baby in her arms. I jumped to my feet and tipped my hat.

"'Please take my seat, madam,' I said. 'I don't mind standing.'

"The woman thanked me with a smile and moved forward. But before she could sit down, a man slipped into the seat and opened his evening paper.

"The nerve of the man amazed me. I tapped him on the shoulder.

"'Hey, you,' I growled, 'I didn't give you my seat. I meant it for this woman.'

"He smiled knowingly and made himself just a little more comfortable.

"'That's okay, buddy,' he replied. 'It's all the same. She's my wife!'"

"THERE'S only one big trouble with vaudeville today," writes Al Schwartz. "Too many of the actors are suffering from short circuit." . . .

"I PASS this story on to you," writes Louis M. Pinkney, "for what it may be worth. It struck me as being highly amusing.

"Mrs. A. was giving a rather important bridge; that is, it was important to her. She had just three tables. The playing was to begin at 2:30, with refreshments to follow.

"At 2 o'clock, the phone rang. It was Mrs. A.'s friend, Mrs. B.

"'My dear Mrs. A.,' said Mrs. B. 'I hate terribly to inconvenience you, but I'm afraid it's going to be almost impossible for me to attend your bridge today. Remember the little dog that was given to me as a present about two months ago? Well, it just died.

"'I've sent for the S. P. C. A. to come for the body and, as I have no servants, I must wait until they come for it!'

"Mrs. A. was very much upset. That bridge game was very important, and Mrs. B. was an expert loser. A thought struck her.

"'Tell you what you do, Mrs. B.,' she suggested. 'Why not put the remains of your little dog into a bag and bring him down here to the country? We can bury him in my garden. You'll be able to save me a great deal of inconvience and also give the little animal a decent burial.'

After considering it for a moment, Mrs. B. decided that there wouldn't be any harm in such an arrangement. So she placed the deceased puppy in a small bag and started out for Hollis, Long Island, where Mrs. A. lived.

"As the train pulled into the station, a courtly gentleman of the old school stepped upto her and offered his assistance.

"'It's a warm day, madam,' he said, 'and that bag seems rather heavy. I'll be only too happy to carry it for you.'

"The gentleman seemed so decent and kindly that she couldn't refuse him. She gave him the bag, entered the train and selected a seat. She turned to take her bag from the courtly gentleman. But there was no gentleman—and no bag. They had both disappeared down the platform.

"So Mrs. B. proceeded to her bridge party with a fine story to tell. And as for the crook who went to all that trouble to steal a deceased puppy—well, I hope for his sake that he has a sense of humor." . . .

"DEAR SIR," writes A. Goldman, of Route 4, Box 143, Petaluma, Cal. "I have been told that you send postage stamps for the asking. Will you kindly send me some stamps at once to the above address? I wish to thank you very much in advance."

Sorry, Mr. Goldman, but I'm all out of stamps right now. Do you think you'd be able to use instead some diamonds, some furs or some nice, crisp $10,000 bills? And if you wouldn't care for these, you might write to Alfred E. Smith. He's liable to give you the Empire State Building for the asking. . . .

"DEAR MARK," writes Jules E. Nelson, of Carteret, N. J. "I returned home from a party one night (or should I say morning?) not so long ago. And as I was about to put my car in the garage, a man approached me.

"'Excuse me, buddy,' he said. 'I know this is a heck of an hour to be asking favors, but I'm in a terrible predicament. I ran out of gas about a mile and a half down the road—and after walking all the way up here, I find that all the gas stations are closed.

"'Do you think you could possibly spare me a little gasoline? You have no idea how much I'd appreciate it.'

"Now, it so happens, Mark, that I always carry an extra gallon of gasoline in my car. And so, big-hearted guy that I am, I told him that I would help him. He hopped into my car and we drove back to where his car stood.

"As he stood and watched, I poured the gallon of gasoline into his tank. He thanked me a number of times, told me that he hoped to be able to repay me some day and drove away. And although it was pretty late, I felt satisfied that I had been a good Samaritan in helping out a brother in distress.

"You know what happened then, don't you, Mark? Right you are. When I climbed into my car, I couldn't start it. It had run out of gas!" . . .

Miss Hepburn Goes Girly In Roles

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 10.—Is RKO trying to feminize the slim, boyish Katharine Hepburn?

After "Little Women," they have her slated for another romantic role, Roxanne in a modern version of "Cyrano De Bergerac." Undoubtedly some changes will be made in this part. It will be enlarged for one thing. But unless the spirit is changed entirely, you'll see a softer Katharine Hepburn here.

Interesting that the Edmund Rostand tragedy should link this actress with John Barrymore for the second time in her brief screen career. He played her father in "Bill of Divorcement," and now, of course, he's to be the swash-buckling, but poetical Cyrano.

Wonder how Rostand followers will take the changing of his play from 1640 to 1916? Kenneth MacGowan, who will be the associate producer on the picture, says that all the situations of the original can be paralleled in war-time France.

Another moot subject will be the famous Cyrano nose. For Barrymore to play the part without the physical disfigurement would be to change the great-souled fighter entirely. How much realism is possible with the nose? The camera is merciless.

They tell it that an eastern youth, who really is not such a bad fellow but who likes to talk too much about his money, was trying to impress Claudette Colbert at a recent party.

He told her about his four houses, his yacht, his 20 servants, his 18-hole golf course, his six cars.

"Now," he said, with what was meant to be a disarming grin, "what have you got?"

Claudette smiled sweetly.

Has it ever been told—how Margaret Lindsay, an American actress, happened to play one of the important roles in Fox's "Cavalcade?" Miss Lindsay hopped over to England as soon as she heard of the search for girls. She'd lived there before and she fooled Fox officials so completely that they put her under contract to play the bride in the "Titanic" sequence. It was shortly before the release of the picture that she had an attack of conscience and confessed the hoax to Winfield Sheehan. There really wasn't much he could do about it, but anyway Mr. Sheehan was gracious.

They'll tell you that Elissa Landi and Miriam Jordan needed no rehearsals for that scene when they swapped digs in "I Loved You Wednesday" . . . It's not too secret either that Maurice Chevalier has an eye for pretty Frances Dee. She keeps it on the big brother basis.

Playhouse Gives Roles For First Comedy

The leading roles in Ben W. Levy's "Springtime for Henry," which the Pittsburgh Summer Playhouse will present at the Shadyside Academy theater, Fox Chapel, the week of June 26, have been assigned to Polly Rowles, J. Donald Gallagher and Helen Wayne. Miss Wayne has just been graduated from Tech drama school. She takes part regularly in dramatic skits broadcast by WCAE. Miss Rowles was prominent in the Tech student revue, "Over the Coals," in the Pitt recently.

NO. 124.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000.00) and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said city in said amount to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: Providing supplies, materials, equipment, labor and supervision (including engineering expenses) for the improvement of streets, parks, playgrounds, wharves, sewers, water lines, bridges and other public properties of the City of Pittsburgh, the labor to be provided from among the unemployed, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS, The corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh, by ordinance duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on March 15, 1932, and duly recorded and published as required by law, signified their desire that the indebtedness of said city be increased in the sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000.00) for the purposes described in Section 1 hereof, and provided that the question of increasing the indebtedness in said amount for said purposes be submitted to a vote of the electors of said city at a special election held on April 26, 1932, and

WHEREAS, After due legal notice, said election was held and conducted as required by law and a majority of the electors who voted at said election voted in favor of said increase of indebtedness, and the vote was duly counted by the Court of Quarter Sessions as required by law, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions made a record thereof and a certified copy of such record under seal, showing the result, was furnished as required by law, to the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the same has been placed of record upon the minutes thereof; now, therefore,

SECTION 1.—Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000.00) to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: Providing supplies, materials, equipment, labor and supervision (including engineering expenses) for the improvement of streets, parks, playgrounds, wharves, sewers, water lines, bridges and other public properties of the City of Pittsburgh, the labor to be provided from among the unemployed.

SECTION 2.—That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate amount of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000.00) be issued for the purpose aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in denomination of one hundred dollars ($100.00) or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of June, 1933, and shall be payable in twenty (20) equal annual installments of fifteen thousand ($15,000.00) dollars each, one of which shall mature on the first day of June in each of the years 1934 to 1953, inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half (4½%) per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of one hundred dollars ($100.00) or multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42, Contingent Fund. Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with facsimile signature of the City Controller.

In the absence or disability of any such officials the bonds shall be signed by the official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place.

Each of said bonds will be known and designated as PUBLIC WORK RELIEF BOND 1933.

SECTION 3. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter to be made liable, to assessment for taxation for city purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after said debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely the year 1934, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the city and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to five (5%) per centum of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said city for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenues of said city an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

SECTION 4. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Act of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said city are hereby pledged.

SECTION 5. That the form of bond issued in pursuance of this ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

AUDACIOUS GIRL REVEALS SECRETS OF SOUTHERN SEAS

CHAPTER XXII.

At Madang my welcome was sincere; Meg and Shorty Long, coming into almost pristine wilderness undefiled by social inanities, had found a rare happiness. Shorty had been motherless since birth, and all his life he had craved a home that actually belonged to him. Now he was like a child who had been given the moon he was longing for, and found it surpassing his hopes.

Meg and Shorty were the most irresponsible of happy-go-lucky couples. Her ventures at housekeeping were like Doras' in "David Copperfield," only Meg never dissolved in tears. We ate when we felt inclined. Except to demand obedience from the native servants, and to forbid betel-chewing, she made little attempt to train them.

Meg's keen sense of humor hurlded whatever of discomfort there was for her in the New Guiena out-station. Her cook-boy was a fierce-visaged, hill-village native, middle-aged, and his face, deeply lined from nostrils to mouth, was invariably streaked with a violent pigment. He wore a tight bead collar, his ear-lobes dangled to his shoulders and were heavy with tambaran wealth, and his wool was a wiry black halo in which a high comb stuck at a slant. A blood-curdling sight was the cook-boy, and no artist at his profession, but he had a kind heart and never balked at our temperamental meal-times.

BUFFOONERY

The lad that waited on us at table was a natural buffoon; he was more than a monkey, but not yet a man grown. His flat feet were pigeon-toed, his silly wide mouth was innocent of half its normal allotment of teeth, a limp red laplap was fastened around his protruding middle, and his ball-shaped wool was festooned with a strip of calico. He would succumb to the giggles while waiting at table, try as he would, hand over mouth, to conquer them.

When he brought in a hot platter, instead of setting it down and relieving his tortured fingers, he would blow alternately upon them, balancing the platter precariously, his eyes wide with surprise, while we in chorus enjoined him to put it on the table. He was just dumb, but so naturally, humorously dumb that his unconscious buffoonery livened our meals tremendously. Meg grew so fond of him that she wanted to adopt him—or at least she said she did. The other servants, two monkeys and two marys, were willing slaves, but had little to do. The servants became an embarrassment of riches.

MORNING TEA

An army cot with a mosquito net on the veranda was mine for as long as I would stay. The cot looked out over the lagoon, facing the sunrise. The sun would wake me mornings, penetrating my dormant brain, enveloping my body. It is good to be waked up so—to see the still lagoon at sunrise, with the cocoanut palms outleaning as if listening to some enchanted music that I could not hear.

With the sun safely up, one might drowse a bit once more, but not for long. There came an inevitable silent-footed figure, in red laplap and with fresh hibiscus flaming in his wool and armlets, saying ingratiatingly, "Tea, Missus?" I loathe morning tea. Hundreds of times I have repeated: "Maskee tea along me along morningtime!" But morning tea (six-thirty) apparently is an inflexible rule implanted in the kanaka brain by the white-fella-mastah, and be the victim ever so sweetly asleep it must be proffered. Sometimes, despairing of escaping the inexorable order of things, I submitted, and sipped unwarily. Ugh! half sugar and half strong tea. No milk ever.

Tea dismissed, or cravenly consumed, and I being by then helplessly awake, the next move is a shower to start off the humid day. So I sing out: "A'right. Now you can make 'im washwash on top along me." An alert, always amused little monkey has been detailed to make washwash-on-top. He darts to the housecook for a tea-kettle, heeding with a "yessah!" the warning, "Make 'im liklik (a little) hot, dassol!" In his eagerness to be of service, he is quite likely to forget to mix cold water with the contents of the boiling kettle. I have been casting off supposed necessities of civilization for many months, but I know luxuries when I see them. I revel in the galvanized shower.

HOTEL ABANDONED

I found that in the shadow of Madang's grim and mysterious mountain ranges lay peace and a joy. It seemed that all the handful of "Europeans" found contentment there. And there, as in Rabaul, one heard always the heart-beat of New Guinea—the steady, unceasing jungle drums.

Madang was once a lusty port of call, capital of the German South Sea Colonies. Several times the capital has been moved, in search of a perfect harbor, until now it rests at Rabaul. But there are still eloquent, decaying remains of Madang's past glory. Chiefly, there is the old German Hotel.

One afternoon, when the cocoanut palms cast monstrous long shadows before the sun, we wandered along the tangled path leading to the hotel. What most attracted us was the brilliance flaunted by scarlet hibiscus, head-high poinsettia, and purple bougainvillea, for Meg wanted to decorate her house. We climbed a rising path to this gorgeousness, and there, obscured by the bushes, stood the hotel.

It was a long, low, one-story affair; a futile attempt had been made to board up windows and doorways, but the boards had long since been tampered with by curious kanakas. The wide veranda was sagging woefully, its foundations and pillars eaten away by white ants and dry-rot. Curiously we peered through windows into the haunted place, and then our concentrated efforts easily pulled away enough boarding to gain us entrance. We entered into the bar-hallway, and could not help exclaiming at the comparative elegance of it. Still intact was a beautifully laid mosaic floor of tiles. Many years had passed since recruiter, trader, planter, and pearl-fisher had drunk each other down with half-gallon steins, yet two cracked steins bearing German legends stood on the counter, portly ghosts of a portly time.

RECLAIMED BY JUNGLE

Tall doors had opened out upon the veranda once, transforming the room into a pavilion. Our footsteps and voices alarmed a bat clinging to some obscure beam, and it flapped blindly over our heads. We stepped out through our forced entrance, and rounded the veranda; the hill, topped by the hotel, sloped down to a small lagoon, and beyond lay the shining sea. All that remained was neglected and decayed. Bougainvillea ran wild over everything, triumphantly, the bush's challenge to white invaders.

So even out there at the far end of the earth, which the war had not even touched with its hot breath, it had left its aftermath. No need for a hotel now in Madang, with no one to use it. The jungle was taking back what it had lost for a time.

Alone I made long excursions into the vast plantation followed by tiny blue butterflies clustering about my feet. These excursions would frequently carry me, tired and thirsty, to the D. O.'s cool house overlooking one of the unspeakably lovely lagoons around about. There was always a pitcher of tart lime juice and water for refreshment; and if the D. O. himself were not on patrol, I would invariably find him stretched out in a long canvas chair. He provided excellent company for an hour, while we puffed at cigarets, and a native pulled sticker burrs out of my stockings and frock.

OLD STAMPS USED

I liked the D. O. a lot. He was a quiet, bookish man, who had spent many years in New Guinea, and he liked a listener to his fund of knowledge concerning the islands as well as I liked to listen to him. Once I asked him why some not-very-old New Guinea postage stamps that I had just come across in one of his scrap-books were marked "North West Pacific Islands," which could not be accounted for geographically.

It seems that in December, 1914, the Second Battalion of the Australian Naval and Military Expeditionary Forces (the Cocoanut Lancers), under command of Col. S. A. Pethebridge, set out under sealed orders. The destination was the Caroline and Marshal islands. After having been at sea for a week the course was altered, for those islands had already been seized by Japan. A supply of Australian postage stamps marked "North West Pacific Islands," was included in the stationery for the use of the Second Battalion, and when the Cocoanut Lancers at length arrived in New Guinea, instead of their original destination, the stamps were put into circulation despite the fact that German New Guinea did not fit the inscription on them. With all the other readjustments to be made in the course of years, this minor one was neglected, and the "North West Pacific Islands" stamps were used until 1925, when a new design, the present one, inscribed "Territory of New Guinea," was issued.

JOHN HUSS (1369-1415 BOHEMIAN REFORMER AT THE STAKE

He is remembered with Jerome of Prague, a contemporary reformer, for great learning. Both became victims of religious and political controversies, characterizing the age of Reformation. (World's History).

LUTHER (1483-1546 AND MELANCHTHON (1497-1560) TRANSLATING THE BIBLE

The Renaissance, maturing for some hundred years, had stirred and quickened man's mind, opened up new realms of enjoyment and thought. But the period of reformation—when ideas of religion and church, pope and bishops, Bible and church ceremonies were altered or retained—brought to the people mental uncertainty and stress scarcely to be conceived now. Above are Martin Luther (left) and Philip Melanchthon (center), Protestant reformers shown. (World's History—Reformation).

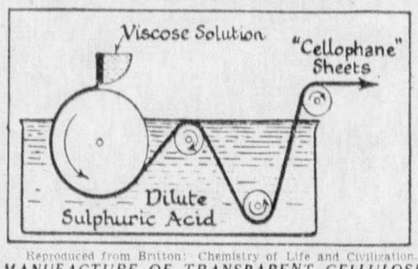
MANUFACTURE OF VISCOSE (Rayon) (Chemistry)

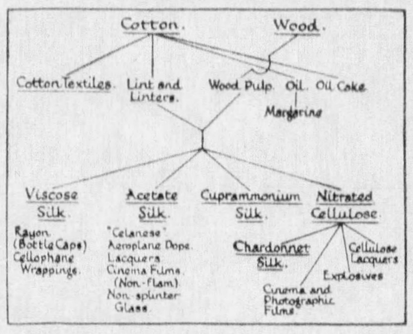
The cellulose of wood (pulp) or cotton linters, after it is bleached and purified, is treated with concentrated caustic soda, Na(OH), then with carbon disulphid (CS_2) and converted into a gelatinous mass which dissolves in water. This solution is forced through the fine holes of a spinning nozzle. The emerging filaments are treated with sulphuric acid (H_2SO_4) and reconverted into cellulose $(C_6H_{10}O_5)_n$, called viscose, the material of artificial silk, 'rayon.'



Reproduced from Britton: Chemistry of Life and Civilization.

MANUFACTURE OF TRANSPARENT CELLULOSE SHEETS ("CELLOPHANE") (Chemistry)

By extruding viscose solution into sulphuric acid then leading the resulting sheet through cleaning- and one glycerine bathes and finally drying it, "Cellophane" is obtained. It can also be made from cellulose acetat.



Reproduced from Britton: Chemistry, Life and Civilization.

COTTON AND WOOD AS RAW MATERIALS FOR ARTIFICIAL SILKS

Cotton consists of about 95% cellulose. By immersing cotton yarn or fabric in sodium hydroxide solution, it is made stronger and given a silk-lustre (mercerization). The cellulose of wood pulp and linters of cotton is the raw material for artificial silks (as shown above, together with other products). Artificial silk looks like silk (the product of the salivary glands of the silk worm) but is chemically not related to it. From cotton oil, the important food-material, margarine, is made, also produced from animal fats. (Science).

YOUR DAILY NEWSPAPER AND HOW IT IS MADE

The newspaper brings you graphic accounts of civilized life and is a product of the most important professions, arts and industries. As such, it should be truthful, unbiased and up-to-date. Spreading the light of publicity, it constitutes the strongest safeguard in keeping all activities within the bounds of human liberties, high morals and public decency. Decay of nations and tyranny of governments are invariably associated with the corruption or suppression of the press. By describing achievements of science, arts and industries, the newspaper is an indispensable medium of education and business; by describing deeds and misdeeds of note, it teaches inexhaustible lessons about the world, life, opportunities and pitfalls. Concerning itself with everybody and everything of importance its technical production is affected by almost every progress in science. The latest developments in electric machinery, radio, printing, photography, the fastest means of transportation, etc., are called upon to make your newspaper more useful, more interesting, more up-to-date. Gathering the news, getting it into print and distributing the paper are the three phases of newspaper-making.

Left: A Sun-Telegraph editor receiving news brought in by a reporter, another taking news by phone. Above right: The written material placed in cartridges goes via compressed-air conveyor to the composing room. A newspaper generally has political, news, picture, art, science, theatrical, radio, church, school, society, sport and financial sections with an editor for each. The managing editor directs the entire task of preparing the editorial and news sections of the newspaper.

Right top: The teletypewriter, an electrically-controlled typewriter, whose operator is sitting hundreds of miles away in the office of a news service which gathers news by wire, radio, telephone from all over the world and sends it thusly to subscribing newspapers. Right: Teletypewriters that enable the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to get news rapidly from various parts of the world. (Science).

Every one of these tips are sure things. As certain as wash on the line with the circus in town.

We thought we were through with the season's toutings. But here's the fifth list and last:

First race. For dog sleds. Purse optional with two vest buttons added. Also conceding. Will do business. Track record—broke. Same for grand stand.

Entries: Grand Punk, Chinese Curse, Jolson's Imitators, Nuts to You, Round Corners, Paper Reins, Soaped Saddle, Girth Grabber, In the Bag, Fixed Jury, Georgia Republican, Poisoned Well, Lend Me Five, Sick Friend, Omit Flowers, Postponed Dinner, Two Cars, Every Garage, Campaign Promise, Tender Toes, Ain't Loaded, Empty Gun, He Was My Friend, Heavy Bail, False Alarm, Mudder's Boy, Divot Catcher, Long Road, Turtle Eggs, Dropped Dish, Another Nickel Please, Stall Sprinter, Bogged Hubs, Running Ears, Door Slammer, Stuffed Chimney, Stabbed in the Dark and Thirty Days' Notice.

Winner selected by Gypsy Joe, Keyhole columnist and concensus of misinformation.

Weather loose, track blocked by wreck of last race and fences none too low for the guys who can't pay off.

Owners say they are pointing empty gun for this start. The first three will be grouped closer than a politician's chins.

Bogged Hubs was away fast last time out, sat down in the middle of the chute and finished there full of courage. All he needs is a jockey who knows somebody with a hypodermic syringe.

Don't miss Door Slammer. His racing colors are linoleum and old gold.

Reed on Right Course

The Senior Senator Is Battling for the Country's Welfare, Brief Comment on Local News.

Senator David A. Reed deserves the thanks of his fellow citizens of Pittsburgh for the valiant battle he is conducting at Washington for the country's best interests. He is on the right side of the major controversial issues in Congress. He is for the manufacturers' sales tax and for a square deal for the veterans. He is against involving the United States in foreign entanglements.

Those veteran Democratic "war horses," David L. Lawrence and James Houlahen, have been rewarded for their service to the party by appointment to choice federal jobs by President Roosevelt. It is too bad that they should be under suspicion of having truckled to the local Republican machine. Lawrence could help to relieve that suspicion by publicly disapproving of Senator James J. Coyne, the Republican boss, and his policies.

The Grand Army of the Republic will hold its state convention in Pittsburgh next week. Years ago this would have been an event of the first magnitude. Now, alas, the number of these veterans of the Civil War has been so sadly reduced that the conventions attract comparatively little attention. Let full honor be done these old soldiers.

*Pittsburgh is to entertain another important con*vention next week in the annual meeting of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. The "Skyscraper Men," as the members of this organization are called, will pay a good deal of attention in their discussions to the question of reducing taxes. The addresses on that subject will be of general interest.

Another interesting matter that is to come up at the "Skyscraper Men's" convention is the subject of percentage rentals. This is a plan under which owners of office buildings regulate the rent according to the tenant's income, reaping a rich harvest when times are good and collecting a reasonable share in periods of depression. Pittsburgh will be glad to learn more of this plan.

The re-election of Daniel M. Clemson as president of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor is a tribute to the manner in which this important philanthropic institution has been guided through the most difficult period in its history. Mr. Clemson has given generously of his time and money to the upbuilding of the association.

*The Pittsburgh Motor Club reports there are ap*proximately 55,000 fewer automobiles and motor trucks in operation and about 85,000 fewer licensed drivers in Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Washington and Westmoreland counties now than in December, 1931. That reveals an attractive potential market for autos in this territory.

*It can be taken for granted that all of the thou*sands who owned or drove automobiles in the Pittsburgh District two years ago, and are without them now, will not be content until they again have machines. Automobiles will be among the first things they will buy when again assured of steady incomes that will enable them to pay for cars.

*Notwithstanding the depression, the State Depart*ment of Agriculture reports, the number of radio receivers on the farms of Pennsylvania has steadily increased from year to year, and now one out of every three farm families has a radio. Almost as many, indeed, have radios as have telephones. It is too bad that two-thirds of the farms still lack radios, for they are not a mere luxury but almost a necessity.

Far from merely serving to entertain, the radio furnishes information that often is of considerable value. The "marketing hints to housewives," prepared by specialists of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Markets, and broacast by WCAE and other stations, are an example of radio service that is useful to many people—service that no doubt has played a part in the increase in radio sets on Pennsylvania farms.

*A joint survey made by Federal and State authori*ties discloses that because of high taxes, low prices and difficulty in obtaining credit, the value of Pennsylvania farm real estate has decreased 44 per cent in the last 13 years. There is some slight consolation in appreciation of the fact that Pennsylvania has not been as badly hit in this respect as other states. In Iowa the decline in farm values has exceeded 70 per cent.

Pittsburgh, which won honors as the "safest city of 1932" in the National Safety Council's competition, stands in sixth place in this year's race at the present moment. The city's rank should be improved. The way to improve it is to reduce automobile accidents. The way to reduce them is for every driver to give more thought to the necessity of care in driving.

The Department of Revenue at Harrisburg has been making a study of defective equipment as a cause of recent motor accidents. It finds that faulty brakes were responsible for a large percentage of such crashes. The motorist who, because of faulty brakes, has no assurance of being able to bring his car to a quick stop, is a menace.

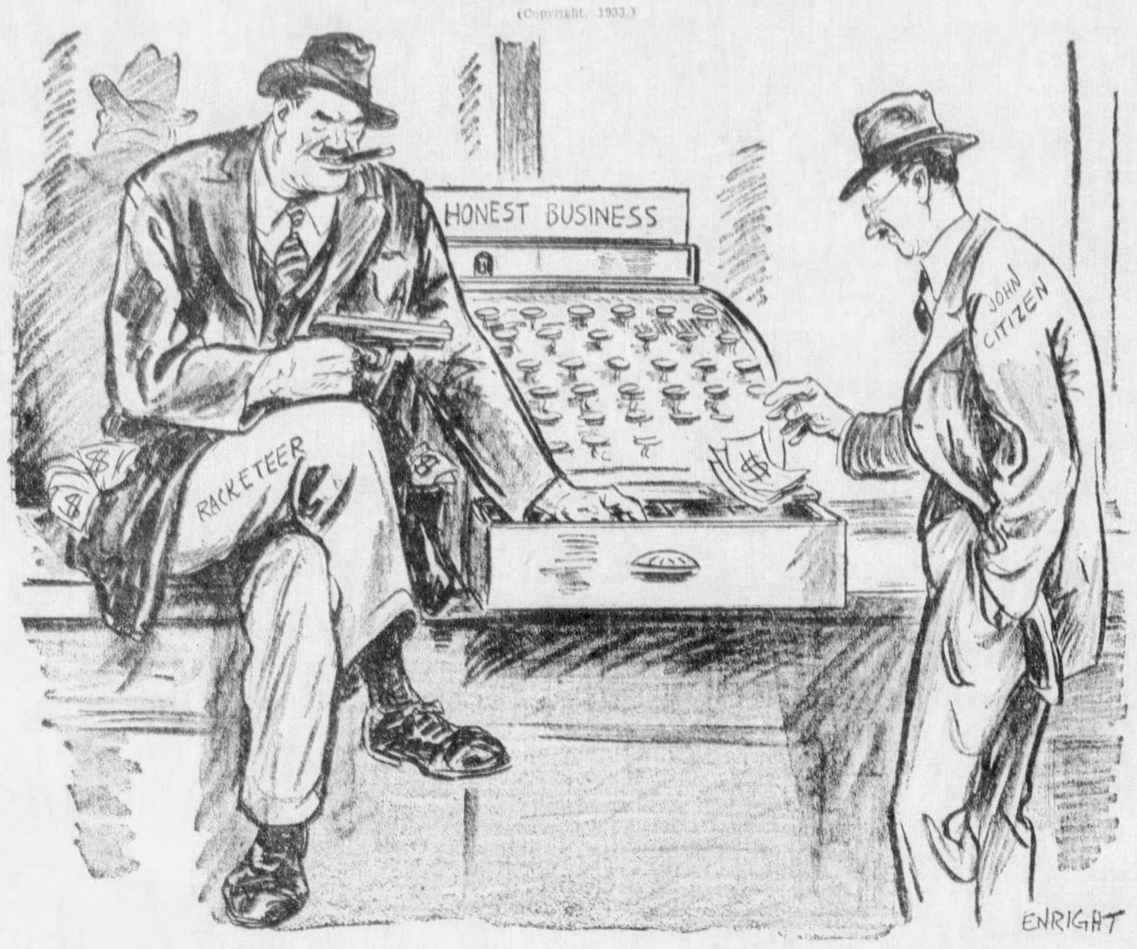
Supt. Wilson C. Price, of the State Highway Patrol, remarks that many motorists take a reprimand from a traffic patrolman as a personal affront. Of course it is the traffic officer's duty to warn motorists who have violated the regulations, or, in flagrant cases, to arrest them. But the officer has no right to be insulting. Sneers and sarcasm and rough, menacing language are out of place. A good policeman can be courteous in making an arrest.

*Prof. Albert Einstein's theory of relativity, a doc*trine which has revolutionized science, is explained for the layman in an interesting illustrated article in the American Weekly, to be distributed as a supplement with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. For those who insist on light reading there is an abundance of other entertaining articles.

For those who do not care for reading, amusement in full measure will be furnished in the funny pictures in Puck, the Comic Weekly Section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Everybody will enjoy the mirthful sequel that followed the discharge of the Jiggs butler and cook. Jiggs is pictured in "Bringing Up Father."

Taking His Toll

(Copyright, 1933.)



It's THE PUBLIC who pays. The insolent racketeer exacts his portion from victimized business men, and the business men have to pass the illegal expense along to the public if they want to remain in business.

That in itself is bad enough. But the burden falls heaviest on those that can least afford it. Racketeering flourishes especially in food trades, and in trades serving the average man's and the poor man's home.

Thus the evil racketeer takes his daily toll from the hard-earned dollars of law-abiding and humble households.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Shrubbery—And Men!

They say that plants, like human beings, are both feminine and masculine, but most of them must be masculine. They are so much like men! Those that you are crazy about and make a fuss over, never respond, while those that you don't particularly care about will stand any sort of neglect and just hang on forever!

Take those poplar trees that I've just finished planting in the wrong place, for instance. They ALL live and flourish like the green bay tree. "Only God can make a tree" —but only "fools like me" can plant a group of beautiful poplars so that they look like a row of wooden soldiers.

And there are those hydrangeas that I planted last year. So long as I yearned over them with a consuming passion and nursed them and coddled them and fed them everything on the market, they were absolutely apathetic and drooped with lassitude and indifference.

But the moment I lost interest in them and concentrated my heart and attention on the purple iris, lo, those hydrangeas sprang to attention, got terribly interested and began to "flag" me—like a man you've just turned down. And when the purple iris began to bloom, the hydrangeas burst out into a positive RAGE of pink and SWORE at the iris. It was exactly like inviting your favorite prize-fighter and your professor of anthropology to tea at the same time for a pleasant afternoon.

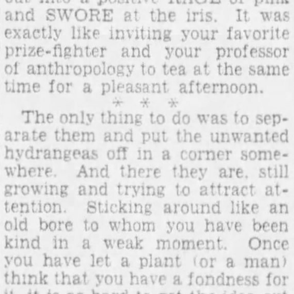
The only thing to do was to separate them and put the unwanted hydrangeas off in a corner somewhere. And there they are, still growing and trying to attract attention. Sticking around like an old bore to whom you have been kind in a weak moment. Once you have let a plant (or a man) think that you have a fondness for it, it is as hard to get the idea out of its head as to unscramble an egg.



Evergreens are good, solid, reliable plants, which can always be depended upon to look proper and dignified. Like good, solid, reliable men, they're a little slow, of course, but they fit in almost anywhere and never change from season to season.

Wonder why most women seem to overlook the good, solid, dependable plants—and men—and always fall for the gay, showy, decorative ones, that go back on you in a few weeks.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 10.—I have been cleaning out an old desk today, a rickety affair fit only for kindling wood. It was bought second-hand with the first check —$8—earned as a practitioner of belles-lettres. The yellowing contents seemed mostly a bundle of hellish heart-aches.

Four warped drawers were filled with stuff no one would buy. The nearest a manuscript in the lot came to success was one that held this brief from an editor, by a clip: "We were tempted to buy this, but it lacks something. Why not try again?"

It's a matter of record, that six more tries were made, but none made the grade. One I noticed began hoity-toitily: "The Hudson rose gray like a coil of blown smoke." I read on trying to catch some fugitive vein of talent. It was not there and I freely forgive the editors.

There was a long poem, too, that had been coiled into a disappointed wad. It must have been written about the time Vachel Lindsay was beginning to be heard and expressed a bulimia for Lindsay's effects. Also a caustic cutting from Don Marquis' column about another columnist that was torpedoed after one edition.

One forlorn essay parodying the meandering Michael Arlen style that flared into such sudden hoop-la was returned by Harper's Bazaar without customary rejection slip, but there was an epistolary sting just the same. The editor had written: "This is fair parody, but poor essay." A consolation was comparing it with another note among my lares and penates of three years ago which reads: "Your piece for Harper's Bazaar rings the bell. It's a pippin!" One of the few instances where comparison was not odious.

In a cubby-hole were cached glorious twinges in the shape of brief messages about nothing in particular from K. C. B., C. L. Edson, Wurra Wurra McLaughlin, S. Jay Kaufman and Robert Emmett MacAlarney, popular writing folk of that particular day. Also a frayed and yellowing Briggs cartoon caricaturing my lantern-jawed phiz and several by H. T. Webster along the same line in the old New York Globe.

A seared address book containing these: George V. Sneed, Sedalia, Mo.; Phil Simms, 121 rue Montmartre, Paris; Sophie Irene Loeb, B'way at 56th street; Dr. F. A. Cook, Polar Publishing Co., Steinway Hall; Charles R. Barnes, Melrose and the Boardwalk, Atlantic City, N. J.; Grove Patterson, the Journal, Detroit; Joe Platt, West Third street, Cleveland, O., and Erskinee Essig, 26 Liberty street, N. Y. And Ziegfeld was paying so much for ballyhooing his Frolics. Get in touch with Pop Rosenthal! A note from Herbert Swope there was no place on the World staff. Yet in later years he was gracious enough to tell me he wished he had given me a chance.

A polite note, too, from Lotta Faust, saying she would receive me in her dressing room at the Globe for an interview Tuesday after the play. It sounded warm and jolly but her manager froze when I confessed being without portfolio —a free lance trying to hawk a piece about Miss Faust to a Sunday section. He was sorry but, etc. I remember leaving feeling frightfully third rate.

* * *

Evidently my sustained enthusiasm for Maugham's "Of Human Bondage" was in full sail, for there were ticklers to remind Ed Simpson, Jim Scott and Daddy Beecher to read it. Cheap envelopes with my address in glaring red reminiscent of juvenile days of syndication. One conceit was a faked cable address. It was a bit of lug I thought smacked of genius. After the years it is ludicrously sappy. Not only was the European trade a vain hope, the American clientele consisted of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post, Toledo Times and Piqua (O.) Call. Those were all.

Also a vernal tug and skyey feeling in a blurred package of nasturtium seeds. I cannot recall the gardening urge. There was a suggestion of philandering, however, inked in one corner. It read: "Cathedral 5-542. Ask for Miss Alice." But my wife recalled it was a seamstress who "did over" certain frocks ready for the rag bag. A savings bank book revealed my total assets upon landing here—$186. It means nothing to anyone save ourselves. Yet is indicative of a courage we may never know again.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You wonder how
We got this way—
Into this depression,
Into this despair,
Into this rising anger
And bewilderment.
BECAUSE WE WISHED IT
ON OURSELVES.

One man didn't Get us into this.
One man can't Get us out of it.
Nor is it the fault
Of any one nation.
America got this way,
All the world
Got this way.
Because we had lived
As long as we could
The other way.
WE HAD LIVED
AS LONG AS WE COULD
WITH THE BIG FELLOW'S FOOT
ON THE LITTLE FELLOW'S NECK;
WITH THE LITTLE FELLOW
SWEATING,
AND THE BIG FELLOW GRABBING
THE PROFIT FROM HIS SWEAT;
AND NOW WE HAVE TO FACE
THE DREADFUL CONSEQUENCES OF OUR OWN PIGGISHNESS.

You dream about
Good Times coming back.
Don't you know yet
That for millions
Of drudging men
And discouraged women
And half starved youngsters
There never were
Any Good Times?
For most of the people,
In every country,
There never were
Any good Times.

WHY DID WE GET THIS WAY?
THAT'S WHY WE GOT THIS WAY—
BECAUSE THE UNDER-DOG
NEVER HAD HIS DAY.

The world always
Got this way
When the Little Fellow
Sweated too long,
And the Big Fellow
Grabbed too much.
Look at Rome!
Look at any people
Who lived on Slave labor!
When the Little Fellow
Gets too sore,
And the Big Fellow
Gets too soft,
There's hell to pay!

AMERICA HAS BEEN LIVING
ON SLAVE LABOR—
Don't kid yourself
That it hasn't!
Ever since
Big Business got going,
Millions of men,
Women and children,
Have been suffering
Worse than slavery
In coal mines,
In textile mills,
In cotton fields,
In sweat shops,
In stock yards,
On mortgaged farms—
And all the other dead-falls
And blind alleys
Of our industrial system.
Good times?
They never knew them,
Nor their parents,
Nor their grandparents
Before them.
WHILE WE HAD EASY PICKINGS,
THEY HAD HELL.

How did we Get this way?
That's how we
Got this way.
By making easy pickings
For ourselves
And letting the under-dog
Go through hell.
NOW WE'RE GOING TO SHARE THAT HELL—
FOR IF THE LITTLE FELLOW
CAN'T PAY,
THE BIG FELLOW CAN'T PLAY.
AND WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

Sure, we want to be saved,
But no leader can save us,
Nor taxes and tariffs,
Nor investigations and surveys,
Nor the jailing of Bank presidents
And other racketeers.
Even public works
Can't save us.
CAN SAVE OURSELVES;
ONLY A CHANGE
AND BRAINS CAN SAVE US.

Practical brotherly love;
Fair recognition
Of the other fellow's rights;
Honest admission
That pigging it Doesn't pay—
That alone can save us,
Or save the rest
Of the world.

IF WE WON'T PLAY FAIR
WITH THE OTHER FELLOW;
IF WE INSIST ON THAT OLD BRUTE CREED
OF "DOG EAT DOG;"
THEN IT'S BACK TO THE JUNGLE
FOR ALL OF US.

And then God help
All the softies!
The Master Minds,
The Better People,
And all the other leeches
Who've lived by the sweat
Of the Little Fellow's brow.
For they'll certainly Get theirs!
What will they get?
Just what they gave.
They dished it out—
But will they take it?
Stick around
And see!

The Human Side of the News

Revolution Brewing in Cuba — A Chance for Soldiers of Fortune—The Remarkable Career of Gen. Lee Christmas

By EDWIN C. HILL

A REVOLUTION is in the making down in Cuba. Up to now the iron hand of President Macado has crushed all opposition, but a big, uprising looks close at hand. This will be good news to soldiers of fortune in all lands. Even now, restless young Americans of my acquaintance are on their way to sell their swords to General Machado or to be the insurrectos. They have got the tropic sun in their blood, those youngsters, and they will never get it out this side of kingdom come.

I have known more than a few of those roving, romantic souls who spent their lives fighting under foreign flags, but the most remarkable of all was General Lee Christmas. He was an amazing vagabond whom fortune showered with gold and honors for years, and then callously threw back into obscurity. He was a railroad engineer who drifted down to Honduras and got a job running a banana train on the Honduras Central, where this writer came across him twenty years ago. He ran a banana train over sixty miles of rusted rails that went wavering back from Puerto Cortez into the jungle and to the banana plantations.

NOTHING of the swashbuckler about him at all. Just a slouchy, unlettered Americano, stranded by fate on the Honduran coast. Much given to bacardi rum and the dark-eyed senoritas. Hating work. And then one day 12 little private soldiers and a general or so started a revolution. The ragged little band of insurrectos seized the custom house at Puerto Cortez for a foothold, and then sallied out along the railroad line. They put a few guns to the red head of Lee Christmas and described all the unpleasant things that would certainly happen to him if he refused to turn over his train to the army of freedom and liberty.

Cursing them and all Hondurans, he ran the train back into the hills and into a hornet's nest of federal troops. Bullets spattered against his engine cab and whistled past his ears, and finally he got so mad that he snatched up a rifle and led the charge which scattered the government forces. The fat little rebel general threw both arms about the lanky Americano, kissed him resoundingly on both cheeks and made him a captain on the spot.

Maker and Breaker of Governments

THAT was the beginning of one of the most singular careers it has ever been the privilege of this writer to follow. Somewhere in Lee Christmas' lazy brain was extraordinary aptitude for military command and the leadership of men, and somewhere in his indolent body was a tremendous reserve of energy. For 25 years he was a power in Central America, making and breaking governments and causing huge embarrassment to various secretaries of state in Washington.

He rose in rank to be a general of division, sporting beautiful uniforms made in Paris, his chest covered with orders. And there was no comic operation generalship about this red-headed Yanqui. He was a scrapper from Scrapperville, and over the marble-topped cafe tables down in Honduras and Nicaragua today you can hear some amazing yarns about the stunts that Lee Christmas pulled in the heydey of his power.

* * *

BUT the last I saw of Gen. Christmas was in the Truro Infirmary in New Orleans some eight or nine years ago. He was a shattered old man, an object of charity, slowly dying, but crying out in his delirium that he must go back to Central America, to the tropics, to the old life, to the sun that had got into his blood. The only friend he had in the world was Guy Maloney, who had fought under him on 50 fields of battle . . . Guy Maloney who used to be chief of police in New Orleans and who is a general himself, now, down in one of the little banana republics.

In End All Come to Same Plight

Poor old Lee Christmas, seeing, as death crept upon him, all the glowing, glamorous pictures that draw these soldiers of fortune below the line. Purple nights hung with stars. Wide, rolling plains, patched with the dark green of coffee and the yellow of sesame. Bronzed white men riding through the shadows. The ruins of a lost and forgotten civilization steeped in the hot stillness of centuries. A dying people, sons and daughters of a once mighty race, hiding away in the heart of the jungle, among their ruined and desecrated temples, peering with dead, hopeless eyes at the intruding white man. The slow rhythm of steel-stringed guitars. Girls' voices trilling laughter in the soft dark.

Soldiers of fortune! But it isn't fortune they collect. In the end they come to the same plight, if they stay long enough, and most of them do. Bullets, and gray hairs, and bodies burned out with fever, and cold charity—or a firing squad at the end of it all! Maybe it's worth the price, to fall out of the shuffling lockstep of cities and the eternal dreariness of towns, and place the biggest bet of all, life itself, upon the spinning wheel of chance.

'ALL PAID FOR'

By Winifred Black

There she stood in the hall, the slight little woman all dressed in gray.

Gray coat, gray hat, gray dress, white hair, blue eyes, and cheeks just the least little bit pink.

"I just dropped in to tell you I'm a neighbor," said the little woman in gray.

"I moved in the first of the week—the big house down there, the one with the view and the garden."

"The view, garden, big house," I echoed. "You don't mean the Old Ladies' Home," said I laughing merrily as we do love to laugh at our own jokes.

"That's just exactly what I do mean," said the little woman in gray.

No, she wasn't joking and she wasn't crying either, she was just telling the truth.

"Come on in, and tell us about it," we chorused.

And in she came and down she sat and told us—all about it.

"I'm all alone in the world now, you know," she said pleasantly, with a friendly little understanding smile.

"I've been living at the club, you know, awfully nice at the club, lectures and musicals and plenty of friends, don't you know, but I had a spell of flu and it was sort of dreary.

"And I had to have a nurse and a doctor, and dear me, how my poor little bank account began to melt.

"I have just a little money, you know, and I've been trying to hang on to it, you know, 'I guess I'm getting old—I might be ill, or ailing, for quite a while. I'd better look around.'

"So I looked around and here I am, settled down as comfy as you please—for life. I'm all paid for, doctors and nurses, and even for the lily in my hand for my last day—not a thing to worry about.

"I think I'm awfully lucky, don't you?

"I've had a lovely life, my husband and I were very happy, we had a house full of gay friends, so you remember our musical evenings, and our pay-as-you-go suppers?

"And now, dear old Jim is gone, and many of our friends are gone, and here I am all settled and paid for and the view and the garden and everything.

"Lucky Lucy, that's what I call myself. Don't you?"

And we didn't one of us dare look surprised or sorry or sympathetic.

Lucky Lucy, that's what she is and she was born lucky, because she was born with courage and humor, and common sense, and if you have these three qualities life can never really do anything to hurt you seriously.

Here's to you, Lucky Lucy, you and your light heart, and your staunch pride and your good, sterling common sense.

Every time I think of you I see a gay flag waving in the wind and hear somewhere not too far away the strains of gallant martial music.
